THE NATIONAL CAPITAL.

Feeling Over the Work of the Philadelphia Convention.

The House Democrats and the Civil Rights Bill.

Senator Fenton's Last Trick for Political Effect.

Prospect for an All-Night Session in the Senate.

Belgian Notions of Extradition all on One Side.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 7.—The greater portion of the members of Congress who went to Philadelphia returned this morning, and the chambers of the House and Senate were again well filled with their accustomed occupants. There also came here many members of the Convention, and with them one splendid brass band from Ohio, constituents of Hon. CHAS. FOSTER, who represents the Sandusky District. They serenaded everybody, nearly, including the President, Senator SHERMAN, Gov. COOKE, Treasurer SPINNER and Commissioner DOUGLASS, and to-night are performing with enthusiasm at the great ratification meeting at Lincoln Hall, which is held under the auspices of the Ohio Republican Association. The city has been full of excitement over the result of the Convention, and there were hundreds of callers this morning at the White House before the Cabinet meeting, while Messrs. WILSON and COLFAX at the Capitol were besieged with visitors all day, who tendered congratulations and condolence, which were received respectively with equal equanimity by the two gentlemen. This afternoon a hundred guns were fired by Capt. N. G. STARKWEATHER's artillery in honor of the nominations, and the announcement of the ratification meetings has filled the streets with people.

BUSINESS IN THE HOUSE.

The House plodded on through the business on the Speaker's table today, and had an evening session to complete it. The members took little interest in the business, and Philadelphia received much more attention than widows' pensions. The Republicans had many of them returned from the Convention by dint of riding all night, and were both jaded and jubilant. A large number were still absent. Of those who remained in this city during the recess, the most were in busy search after the scenes and incidents of the day before at Philadelphia. In the course of the afternoon, two bills that are by this time pretty thoroughly known to legislators and newspaper readers, were reached in their regular order. The first was the Civil Rights bill. Mr. POLAND, by an amendment, removed the only remaining basis for Democratic objection to this bill. The original penalty provided for in Mr. CARPENTER's substitute is a fine of not less than $500 nor more than $5,000. The Democrats have insisted that in many cases this must be too severe a penalty to be just. Mr. POLAND therefore placed the maximum at $1,000 in his amendment, leaving the minimum to the discretion of the Courts, and in a subsequent amendment he placed it at $100. In both cases the solid Democratic vote was against the bill, and it therefore failed of the required two-thirds. Mr. BROOKS announced that he saw nothing in the measure not already provided for in the common law, and when pressed for a reason why he should not therefore vote for it, he hinted that it legislated social equality, a statement exceedingly absurd, the Carpenter amendment having been framed with a view to avoiding all possible foundation for that charge. The other bill was that known as the Kuklux bill, which was defeated by a vote of 56 to 88, eleven of the latter being Republicans.

HONEST MR. FENTON.

Mr. FENTON charged, in the Senate today, that his Custom-house bill had been purposely delayed. This seemed to strike the Senate as an exceedingly good joke. The bill was reported to the Senate early in the session, and was in Mr. FENTON's immediate control. If any other Senator had been ever so desirous of securing action upon it, it would have been, under the usages prevailing in legislative bodies, an insult to Mr. FENTON to have been in advance of him in urging action. He called it up and made one speech on it, and then voluntarily left it to lay aside without action. It is not recalled now that on any of the occasions when there was any antagonism between bills claiming consideration and antagonized to each other, he ever made any effort to keep his measure before the Senate, or that the Senate ever laid it aside by a vote. If he and his reform associates had devoted a moiety of the time they have spent in making political speeches, to urging action on his Custom-house bill, it would have been acted on by the Senate long ago.

AN ALL-NIGHT SESSION IN THE SENATE.

The Senate has spent day and evening on the sundry Civil Appropriation bill, and there was an intention to sit it out. The House appropriation for the settlement of old Southern mail contracts was struck out. The changes made by the Senate from recommendations reported from the Appropriations Committee were exceedingly few. There remained, at 10 o'clock, but few amendments to be acted on which related in any way to legitimate appropriations. There is, however, a prospect that one more effort will be made to remove the restriction limiting the character of amendments now in order, for the purpose of putting on this bill the enforcement law amendment. This effort may consume the whole night or it may not be seriously pushed. If it is, it will lead to extended debate, and may effect the time of final adjournment. It is not believed outside the Senate that the rule will be set side.

THE LINCOLN HALL MEETING.

The Grant and Wilson meeting held to-night, at Lincoln Hall, was crowded, a number of ladies being among the auditors. Senator SHERMAN presided, and made a speech, followed by Secretary DELANO, Representatives BINGHAM, SHELLABARGER and STEVENSON and others. Resolutions were adopted indorsing the Philadelphia nominations, and the meeting adjourned with enthusiastic cheers.

Dispatch to the Associated Press.

NOMINATIONS BY THE PRESIDENT.

The President sent the following nominations to the Senate today: Ellis Spear, of Maine, to be Examiner-in-Chief in the Patent Office; Odin Thayer, Assessor of Internal Revenue for the Eighth Massachusetts District; V. S. Lusk, United States District Judge for the Western District of North Carolina.

CONFIRMATIONS.

The Senate in Executive Session this afternoon, confirmed the following nominations: Medical Director, JAMES C. PALMER, to be cheif of the Navy Bureau of Medical Surgery, vice FOLTZ, retired by reason of age and length of service; ROBERT P. DICK, to be United States District Judge, and VIRGIL S. LUSK, to be Attorney for the Western District of North Carolina.

NAVAL ORDERS.

Commodore E. P. McRea, detached from the command of the Monocacy and placed on waiting orders; Lieut.-Commander George W. Coffin, from the Constellation to the Naval Academy; Ensign Thomas T. Phelps, Jr., from the Lackawanna to the Independence; Surgeon D. Kennedy, from the Ossipee and placed on sick leave. The Secretary of the Navy has issued a general order relative to shore and sea duties of officers. It says:

Whenever an officer at sea, or ordered to sea, shall be relieved at his own request, he shall have no claim for shore duty until he shall have made a cruise of the usual length. When an officer shall be transferred from one shore station to another, the time spent at all the several stations shall be put together and counted as his term of shore service, at the expiration of which he must at all times hold himself in readiness to join a ship without delay. It is proper that junior officers should have the opportunity to acquire as rapidly as possible the requisite experience at sea, and that the more constant and severe duties of the service should devolve upon them. They must, therefore, expect little employment on shore, and must at all times hold themselves ready for sea service. All officers are reminded of the impropriety of seeking to evade their proper tours of professional duty on personal consideration or through the intervention of influential friends, thus seeking to impose upon others service which it is their own duty to perform, and perhaps hardships and dangers which belong of right to themselves.

THE LOUISVILLE CANAL.

Representative HOLMAN's proposition in the House to reduce the tolls of the Louisville Canal was engrafted on the River and Harbor bill in the Senate and has been concurred in by the House, thus fixing the tolls at five cents per ton.

BELGIAN IDEAS OF EXTRADITION.

The President today communicated to the House of Representatives copies of the correspondence between this Government and that of Belgium in regard to the negotiation of our Extradition treaty. The correspondence took place in 1869. The attempt to negotiate the treaty failed because Belgium was averse to including a stipulation for giving up Belgian subjects who had committed crime in the United States. The Belgian laws consider that only foreigners, and not Belgians, are the proper subjects of extradition in case of criminal offenses in the United States. The Belgian Government therefore said it was imossible to accede to the desire expressed by the United States to include nationals. The United States, on the other hand, hold that their own citizens and the subjects or citizens of the other contracting Power are no less fit subjects of extradition than foreigners.

CLAIM OF AN OFFICER UNDER PAUL JONES.

During the proceedings in the House of Representatives this afternoon a bill was passed for the relief of a lady aged seventy-one years, giving her $8,000, being the amount of seven years' half-pay due to her father, who served as an officer under PAUL JONES in the Bon Homme Richard. Twenty-five years had been spent by her in prosecuting the claim. She was in the gallery when the announcement of the passage of the bill was made by the speaker and waved her handkerchief with an air of triumph, several members on the floor noticing this act began to applaud, meanwhile smiling at the lady as it to express their gratification at the result. Other members followed their example and the general clapping of hands and laughter rang through the hall. The lady, overcome by her feelings, burst into tears and then fell upon her knees in prayer. Many hearts were made glad by the lady's success.

OBITUARY.

Capt. William F. Beers.

We announce this morning, with deep regret, the death of WILLIAM F. BEERS, the night editor of the New-York Tribune, who died of congestion of the brain, last night, in the thirty-fifth year of his age. Mr. BEERS was born in Ireland, but came to this country at a very early age. When only ten years old he entered the office of the Sun, and remained there for four or five years, after which he spent about six years in the book-office of SMITH & McDOUGALL. He next went into the composing-room of the TIMES, where he remained until the beginning of the war. While here he became a prominent and respected member of the Typographical Union. When the call for volunteers was sounded he enlisted as a private in the Tenth New-York Volunteers, and served with credit until the battle of the Wilderness, where he was dangerously wounded in the thigh. While lying in hospital he was twice captured by guerrillas; but was retaken by the United States forces and removed to the hospital at Washington. When he recovered from his wound he rejoined the army before Petersburg, and received his commission as Second Lieutenant, and for gallant and meritorious conduct was shortly afterward promoted to be First Lieutenant and given the command of Company C. He remained with the army until LEE's surrender. When he returned from the war he entered the composing-room of the Tribune, and there exhibited such skill and efficiency that in 1869 he was assigned to the position of night news editor, and was gradually advanced to that of night editor in charge, which place he held at the time of his death.

Mr. BEERS had all the qualifications for the position he held, a position which demands the exercise of a rapid and discriminating judgment; and in his private life he displayed the qualities that enter into strong and enduring friendship—he was brave, generous and gentle.

STANTON AND GRANT.

Further Convincing Testimony of the Error in Mr. Sumner's Statement.

From the Cleveland Leader, June 6.

We give below the testimony of an esteemed friend, Rev. EDWARD ANDERSON, formerly of Ashtabula, but now of Jamestown, N. Y., showing that the statement of Mr. SUMNER, to the effect that Mr. STANTON asserted on his dying bed that "Gen. GRANT could not govern this country," cannot be true. This, added to the vast amount of testimony springing up all over the country, showing how Mr. STANTON had repeatedly expressed his admiration for and his confidence in Gen. GRANT's ability to fill the Presidential chair, will effectually neutralize Mr. SUMNER's statement. Mr. ANDERSON will be remembered by many of our readers as Col. ANDERSON, who was one of the fighting parsons of the Union army during the rebellion.

EDITOR LEADER: Having the indignation called forth by Senator SUMNER's assertions in regard to Mr. STANTON's distrust of Gen. GRANT's ability to govern the country, I cannot refuse to enter my protest against it, as casting a blot on the name of one of GRANT's warmest friends and admirers, who cannot rise from his grave to deny the charge, and whose friends must do it for him.

During the weeks that preceded and followed the State elections that preceded GRANT's election, I saw more or less of Mr. STANTON, both at Hon. PETER H. WATSON's mansion and in my own study at Ashtabula, and his allusions to Gen. GRANT's ability, and his expressions of approval of his nomination were as marked and unmistakable as were those he made in public. Mr. STANTON did not expect to find in the blunt soldier a clear-cut statesman, but he looked for just what the country has found—honest, straighforward effort to put the country right and hold it so.

Mr. STANTON had well-defined views, and was not disinclined to express them when occasion required. I am glad to call before the public mind what lives so pleasantly in my own memory of this good and great man's honest efforts for the election of Gen. GRANT to the Presidency.

EDWARD ANDERSON.

"The Republic Without Republicans."

M. LOUIS BLANC has just published in the Rappel an article entitled "The Republic without Republicans." He thinks that past sufferings entitle the Republicans of the present day to places and honors, and the following picture is set by him befor the eyes of his readers: "The history of the nineteenth century is, one may say, the martyrology of the Republicans. Engaged during the French revolution in an epic struggle in which their blood flowed in torrents for the conquest of right and the defense of the people; decimated under the first BONAPARTE, persecuted to the death under the Restoration, delivered to the numberless perils and grievances of a military policy under LOUIS PHILIPPE, gagged by the second BONAPARTE, they have during eighty years experienced and endured everything—the scaffold, prison, exile, outrage, calumny. For them, 1848 was only the flash of lightning which renders still darker the night it traverses. When they were not killed or proscribed they were pointed out as sectarians to the hate of some, and as Utopists to the mockery of others."

Hendricks' Position.

"Buckeye" has been attempting to show HENDRICKS' position in the Indianapolis Journal. He writes: "On the day preceding the meeting of the National Democratic Committee at New-York, Judge NIBLACK informed two prominent Democrats, whose names are at the Judge's service, that he had a letter from Mr. HENDRICKS denouncing Mr. GREELEY bitterly, and vowing that he would not run for Governor of Indiana this Fall under the Greeley flag. At about this date Col. VOORHEES produced, in Washington, a letter to him, also from Mr. HENDRICKS, expressing utter disgust for and abhorrence of the nominee of the new dispensation. A fortnight later Mr HENDRICKS declined to be interviewed by the reporter of the Cincinnati Enquirer.

AFTER THE CONVENTION

Incidents of the Great National Republican Gathering.

Greetings Between State Delegations—Philadelphia's Welcome—Work of the Committee on Resolutions—Closing Scenes.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, June 7.—Little can be added to the very full accounts of the closing scenes of the Republican National Convention which have been published in the TIMES. I may add, however, that there were during last evening many interchanges of courtesies and happy greetings between the State delegations, not the least suggestive of which was when the New-Jersey delegation called in a body upon the Indiana delegation, in the evening, to exchange farewell courtesies. Ex-Senator CATTELL spoke for New-Jersey. He said that his State had done its best for SCHUYLER COLFAX in 1868, and today had thrown its little all in his favor. They still thought he was the best man for the place, but they had determined that the ticket was one built to win, and they would do their best to turn the electoral vote of this always doubtful State in its favor. The Indiana delegation received the speech with hearty cheers, and Gen. LANE made one of his happiest impromptu replies. He said that Indiana was disappointed, but believed that only one thing could have made the ticket stronger, and on the strength of that Indiana extended the hand of cordial co-operation to the East, and would do her best to make the ticket triumphant. The best possible feeling prevailed among both delegations, and Mr COLFAX's warmest friends were enthusiastic Wilson men before the evening was over. There was also an informal meeting held at 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon, in the head-quarters of the New-York delegation, at the Continental Hotel. Dr. LORING delivered an eloquent address on the appropriateness of their choice in selecting Mr. WILSON for Vice-President. Addresses were also delivered by representatives of other delegations in congratulation at the result of the Convention.

Many other State delegations also made friendly calls upon their brethren from other States, and in all cases pledges were made and given to go work for the ticket with all possible energy and to leave nothing undone which might help to secure its triumphant election. Everybody was satisfied, everybody assured of success, and of the thousands of Republicans here, not one went away with the least doubt in his mind that this great Convention had named the next President and Vice-President of the United States.

PHILADELPHIA'S WELCOME.

Everybody went away, too, with pleasant memories of the welcome which Philadelphia had accorded to the strangers within her gates, which could be but feebly expressed by the formal resolution which Col. SPENCER offered in the Convention, and which was unanimously adopted. Everybody was made comfortable, both at hotels and private houses, and among the former the Continental, under the management of Mr. KINGSLEY, who took the affair under his personal supervision, was a marvel of efficiency. The thousands congregated under its roof were comfortably lodged and fed, with no abatement whatever in the quality or quantity of its fare, and with less of crowding or waiting in its dining-rooms than is usual on such occasions. Other hotels also did well, and there was a general commendation of the care which had been taken to attend to the comfort of every one. There was also universal satisfaction expressed for the courtesies extended to all by the Union League and the citizens generally, but especially by the journalists called here by their professional duties, for the attention shown them by their brethren of the Press residing here, among whom Col. FORNEY, Mr. CLAYTON McMICHAEL and Mr. FRANCIS WELLS were conspicuous. The two last had the thankless duty of making and managing the arrangements for the accommodation of the Press in the Academy, and performed it so admirably that there was not a single growl, which was something unprecedented. The Press were also under great obligations to Gen. THOMAS T. ECKERT, General Superintendent of the Western Union Telegraph Company, and Mr. BATES, the Philadelphia Superintendent, for the excellence with which they managed the telegraphic communications with distant cities. It was a satisfaction to know that copy was sent "promptly and correctly" to its destination, and this knowledge was afforded the correspondents by the courtesy and efficiency of Gen. ECKERT and Mr. BATES.

THE COMMITTEE ON RESOLUTIONS.

In taking leave of the Convention it will not be amiss to say a few words of the hardest-worked body in the Convention—the Committee on Resolutions. The Subcommittee which prepared them was made up of Judge Glenni W. Scofield of Pennsylvania, Gen. Hawley, Gov. Hayes, Congressman Elliott of South Carolina, Daniels of Virginia, Ricks of Tennessee, James Speed of Kentucky, Judge Ray of Louisiana, and Hermann Raster, of the Illinois Staats Zeitung. This Subcommittee was in session last evening until 1 o'clock, met again at 9 this morning, and did not finish its labors until late in the session of the Convention. There was no lack of harmony among the members; the best possible feeling prevailed throughout the deliberations, and the substantial unanimity on all great questions where it was not complete was made so by the readiness of all parties to concede something of their extreme views to all others. The Committee was greatly retarded and embarrassed by the immense mass of materials in the shape of drafts of platforms which were handed in. The Committee conscientiously examined every one of these, assorted them, and picked something from many of them. The general plan of the platform is founded upon the draft which was sent in by GEORGE WILLIAM CURTIS, and the civil service reform plank, as it appears, is substantially as framed by him. It meets with universal approval among the delegates. The exordium of the platform which sums up the work and the history of the Republican Party was written by Gen. HAWLEY. The civil rights plank was prepared by Judge RAY, of Louisiana, and is satisfactory to the Southern Republicans of both colors, who make many comparisons between its open, unflinching avowal and the unhappy truckling on this question which disfigures the Cincinnati resolutions. The working men's plank is placed in the platform very nearly as it was written and forwarded by WENDELL PHILLIPS and S. P. CUMMINGS, who accompanied it with a letter saying that it would satisfy the working men in that shape. There were innumerable drafts of working men's resolutions sent in. The Committee was generally anxious to adopt one that was more definite in its tone, but agreed to this one finally out of deference to its framers. The sixteenth resolution is the work of HERMANN RASTER, and its admirable phraseology is commented upon in a way highly complimentary to its author. The New-Englanders were, some of them, inclined to oppose it at first, but it was finally adopted with hardly a dissent. Woman's plank in the platform is one of the two resolutions sent in by BLACKWELL, accompanied by an intimation that the adoption of the first would satisfy the woman suffrage people, being a step so far in advance of anything they have ever received before, that they could well afford to be grateful. It is urged by some to-night that it means nothing whatever, but those most interested reply to this that it is at least a recognition, and that means a great deal in their eyes. There was very little opposition to embodying it in the platform, when the Committee came to vote. The tariff plank, it is understood, is mainly the work of Judge SCOFIELD, the Chairman of the Committee; some changes were made in the draft as originally prepared by him, and the Committee were entirely agreed that the plank was amply up to the sentiment of the country.

DEPARTURES.

This morning Philadelphia has resumed its normal appearance. The late trains yesterday and the early trains today have carried away thousands to the North, West and South. Very many have gone to New-York before returning to their homes, and the trains thither have been unprecedentedly heavy. The enthusiastic confidence in an impending triumph, which yesterday made this city wear a sublime aspect, is now scattering over the land, to everywhere recount the thrilling scenes they have witnessed here and to await that casting of the votes which the formalities of the law require for the election of ULYSSES S. GRANT, of Illinois, and HENRY WILSON, of Massachusetts, as President and Vice-President of the United States. That the election is a mere formality, no one who has witnessed the scenes here can doubt, for here has been evidence in abundance that the Republican Party is stronger, more enthusiastic, more confident than it ever was before upon the eve of battle.

E. C.

The President and Vice-Presidents of the Convention to Meet in Washington.

PHILADELPHIA, June 7.—Judge THOMAS SETTLE, of North Carolina, permanent Chairman of the Republican National Convention, will be present at the Ebbitt House, Washington, at 12 o'clock noon, on the 10th inst., for the purpose of meeting the Vice-Presidents of the Convention from the several States and Territories. The object of this meeting is to make the necessary arrangements to execute the order of the Convention, directing its President and Vice-Presidents to inform Gen. GRANT and Senator WILSON of the nominations.

RATIFICATION MEETING.

The Colored Men of King's County Indorse the Philadelphia Nominees.

A grand meeting of the colored citizens of King's County was held last evening at Commonwealth Hall, Brooklyn, to ratify the nominations of the Philadelphia Convention. Mr. L. H. FREEMAN occupied the chair.

Mr. WM. H. JOHNSON, President of the State Central Committee, in an able address advocated the nomination of Gen. GRANT and HENRY WILSON for the offices of President and Vice-President. They met, he said, to congratulate each other upon the auspicious result of the work which had been performed within the last ten days by the Republican Party. They were convened for the purpose of defining their position and letting the people of the Empire State know that their united support would be directed to accomplish the success of the Philadelphia Convention. [Cheers.] He referred to the action of the colored delegates in the recent National Republican Convention, and called attention to the relative claims of Mr. GREELEY and Gen. GRANT for the colored vote. Many had asserted that to Mr. GREELEY was due the praise of all the efforts in the interest of the slaves. He was willing to accord Mr. GREELEY all the merit he deserved, but he was not ignorant of the inestimable services rendered by GERRIT SMITH, DOUGLASS and a host of others—services which cast those of Mr. GREELEY completely in the shade. As between GRANT and GREELEY, the colored people of the South could not hesitate as to their choice. Their savior of four years since, GRANT's Administration in the meantime had endeared him to the hearts of all the colored people. WILSON's nomination was also very auspicious, and the names of GRANT and WILSON would head the Republican triumph of November next.

Mr. GEO. MEYERS, the next speaker, called attention to the present system of the public schools, and asked his people to send their children to them, to avail themselves of the facilities offered them for learning the mechanical trades and suiting them for mercantile pursuits. After another address by Mr. J. Q. ALLEN, Mr. JOHNSON then proposed the following preamble and resolutions, which were unanimously adopted:

Whereas, The work of the Philadelphia Convention in the selection of the candidates for the Presidency have fully met the expectations of the American people in the nomination of Gen. GRANT and HENRY WILSON; and

Whereas, The thanks of the country are due to the delegates for the noble manner in which they did their duty, and compliance with the will of the people; therefore,

Resolved, That this meeting indorse the nomination of GRANT and WILSON, and will labor for their election in November next.

Mr. WILLIAM BROWN next advocated the claims of the Philadelphia nominees to the suffrages of the colored people. A resolution was passed indorsing them, and the meeting soon afterward dispersed.

Rejoicings over the Nominations.

The Republican Grant Club of Sing Sing fired a salute of thirty-eight guns upon the reception of the news of Gen. GRANT's renomination, and afterward a large meeting was held and addresses listened to from C. C. NORTH, G. T. SHELDON and C. B. PALMER. There was much enthusiasm manifested.

The Republicans of Watertown, N. Y., fired 100 guns yesterday in honor of the Philadelphia nominations.

A dispatch from Jackson, Miss., states that GRANT's nomination is received with enthusiasm by the colored element there. A ratification was held on Thursday night, composed almost entirely of colored persons. Gov. POWERS denies the statement that he will support GREELEY, and says that he will support GRANT.

The Oregon Election—A Republican Clean Sweep.

PHILADELPHIA, June 7.—The following dispatch was received after the adjournment of the Convention last evening:

PORTLAND, Oregon, June 6.

To the President of the Philadelphia Convention:

Oregon is redeemed. We have carried everything, Representative in Congress and both branches of the Legislature. This State is safe for the nominees of the Philadelphia Convention.

GEORGE H. WILLIAMS.

Explosion in a Portland Hotel.

PORTLAND, Me., June 7.—An explosion occurred in the attic of the United States Hotel in this city, at 6 o'clock this morning, setting fire to the building. The roof was burned through, and the house drenched with water. The furniture and fixtures were damaged to the extent of $10,000 or $15,000. The damage to the building is from $5,000 to $8,000—all fully insured. The cause of the explosion is unknown. The stores of Misses EASTMAN and CUTTS and Mrs. DAM, in the lower part of the building, were badly damaged by water. The former has an insurance of $3,400, and the latter $2,000, which will not cover the loss.

Reception to Bishop Peck at Syracuse.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., June 7.—Bishop J. T. PECK, one of those recently elected Bishops by the Methodist General Conference, arrived home to-night, and was formally welcomed by his church, the university and the ministry. The reception was warm and affecting, and demonstrated the great esteem in which he is held by the people of this city. His future location will be in San Francisco, but he will remain here for about a year.

The Poor Children's Picnics.

For a number of years the Children's Aid Society has treated the children who attend its industrial schools to an annual excursion to some of the beautiful picnic grounds a short distance from the City. The first of these this season was enjoyed yesterday by the children of the Thirteenth Ward School in Rivington-st. At an early hour a numerous party of boys and girls took the boat for Buena Grove, on the banks of the Harlem River, which was reached by 10½ o'clock. The day was spent in romping through the woods, playing ball, swinging, gathering wild flowers, and plaiting wreathes of pretty leaves. The teachers were unwearied in their efforts to promote the happiness of their youthful charge, entering into their sports and supplying abundance of refreshments. The party returned at a seasonable hour, bearing immense bouquets of wild flowers and crowned with pretty wreaths.

DR. LANAHAN.

His Arrest at the Suit of Goodenough.

Arbitrary Conduct of the Sheriff's Officials—A Malicious and Unusual Course—A Clergyman Imprisoned on a Vindictive Suit.

The warfare waged against Dr. LANAHAN, for bringing to light the frauds of the Methodist Book Concern, culminated yesterday afternoon in the arrest of the reverend gentleman, at the suit of SAMUEL J. GOODENOUGH, another prominent member of the Methodist community, on a charge of libel and slander. Dr. LANAHAN was, at the time of his arrest, reading a work in the establishment of Messrs. CAMPBELL, HALL & Co., in Nassau-street, near Ann. The arrest was made by Deputy Sheriff MARTIN J. KEESE, assisted by Deputy Sheriff McLOUGHLIN. Without a word of explanation or preface, Deputy Sheriff KEESE, placed his hand on Dr. LANAHAN's shoulder and said, "I am a Sheriff, and have a warrant for you. You are my prisoner." Dr. LANAHAN bowed to the authority of the law, and merely said, "I should like to communicate with my friends. Will you be kind enough to allow me to write to my friends from here?" Permission to sit down in the store and write a letter was gruffly refused by the official, who, despite Dr. LANAHAN's repeated protests, hurried the latter to the Sheriff's office with uncalled-for rudeness. There, after a delay, permission was condescendingly accorded Dr. LANAHAN to write a letter, which permission he rejected, saying that he had been treated with unnecessary violence, and, not caring for further insult, would prefer to be taken to jail.

The suit against Dr. LANAHAN by Mr. GOODENOUGH is brought before Judge FREEDMAN, in the Superior Court, and the affidavit on which warrant of arrest was granted by the Judge is partially made on affidavit and belief. It sets forth the ground of complaint in the following way: "That the said defendant has often repeated and spoken to good and worthy citizens that the plaintiff was a common thief and robber, and that he could prove such to be the fact, and that plaintiff's wife wore diamonds and other jewelry bought with money stolen by him (plaintiff) from the Methodist Book Concern, in which plaintiff was employed; that plaintiff had stolen $20,000 from said Concern in one year, and that defendant published such false and malicious libels in letters to one of the Bishops of the M. E. Church, and others. Plaintiff avered, on information and belief, that defendant had disposed of his house in this City, and purposed residing in the City of Baltimore, Md., and prayed for his arrest before he left the jurisdiction of the Court. The damages to reputation and character were laid at $25,000. Judge FREEDMAN, in granting the order of arrest, fixed the bail at $5,000. After a considerable delay, Sheriff KEESE, who, on making the arrest, refused to give Dr. LANAHAN his name, asked him if he proposed giving bail. Dr. LANAHAN replied that he had been subjected to great indignities already, and now could not get bail without involving his friends in the persecutions to which he had been exposed. He would be obliged to wait until some of his relatives arrived in the City, preferring not to have his personal acquaintance dragged into his troubles. He was at once removed to Ludlow-street Jail and locked up. During the evening several gentlemen of high prominence in the Methodist Church, called on him at the prison and tendered him their earnest sympathy and support.

The Rulloff Rewards—Suit by New-York Policemen.

From the Binghamton Republican, June 5.

DAVID E. CRONIN, Esq., has begun suits against the City of Binghamton, County of Broome, and D. M. & E. G. HALBERT, in behalf of Capts. HEDDEN and RILEY, of the New-York Police force, for a portion of the rewards offered for the arrest and evidence leading to the conviction of the murderer of MIRICK. The claims of Capts. HEDDEN and RILEY are based upon the assistance they rendered the officers of this city and county in finding RULLOFF's abode in New-York, and the evidence furnished by the discoveries there made.

The Common Council and the Controller—Discussion on the Distress Among the Laborers.

A Committee of the Board of Aldermen, consisting of Messrs. JOYCE, (Chairman,) MEHRBACH, and GILSEY, waited on Controller GREEN and Commissioner VAN NORT yesterday, in pursuance of a resolution passed at the Board meeting of the 27th ultimo. A discussion took place at that meeting concerning the steps which should be taken to relieve the distress existing among the laborers who were thrown out of employment by the discontinuance of public works. Alderman CONOVER then asserted that the inaction of the Street Department arose because the Controller could not find time to open bids for the proposed works.

Today Controller GREEN stated that the Alderman was mistaken, as he had not been requested to attend the opening of bids by the Department of Public Works. He stated his readiness to respond to any notification.

The Superintendent of Street Improvements of the Department of Public Works stated to the Committee that the majority of the ordinances passed by the old Board were illegal and had been so decided by the Corporation Counsel. Again, as to the ordinances passed by the present Board, the Superintendent explained that as the Controller was not paying contractors for work done, he deemed it would not be for the interest of the City to call for bids for additional work. Now, however, it is intended to advertise the contracts and begin work without delay.

The Committee received assurance that the rate of wages of the workmen would be raised if any reasonable grounds for doing so should be presented. The Board of Aldermen are expected to take further action in the matter at their next meeting.

THE SUPPLEMENTAL ARTICLE.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 7.—It is now regarded here as almost certain that the Treaty of Washington is at last saved. The proceedings in the House of Lords last night removed the great difficulty in the way of the English Cabinet, which was simply a misunderstanding on the part of the English people of what had been done with the indirect claims. Earl GRANVILLE's warning that they were not withdrawn, expresses precisely their status under the supplemental article. They are not withdrawn, but their settlement is provided for. The only point that now remains open is the effect of the rule of the supplemental article upon indirect claims in future. This will probably be arranged very soon, but even if not the article is sufficient for the indirect claims of the present case. Indirect claims which have not arisen may safely be left for future discussion.

A report prevailed today that England has accepted to the additional article to the Treaty of Washington. This report may have been founded on the remarks made last night in the House of Lords, which gave promise of such a result. No official information had been received up to a late hour to-night confirming the report. Gentlemen in official positions have, however, through Minister SCHENCK, such intimations as lead them to believe the article will be accepted with the explanation given the British Ministry by authority of our Government in relation to the consequential damages. Should the article be accepted, it will be embodied in the form of a treaty to be negotiated here by Secretary FISH and Sir EDWARD THORNTON, and then sent to London for the Sovereign's signature. The arbitrators at Geneva can adjourn soon after their meeting on the 15th inst., to meet again as soon as the document shall reach them, and thereafter continue their business without further impediment.

WIND AND RAIN.

Great Destruction of Live Stock and Crops in Iowa and Illinois.

IOWA CITY, Iowa, June 7.—A tornado passed south of here last night, unroofing and tearing down houses and barns and killing stock. Orchards and crops were destroyed. No person was injured.

CANTON, Ill., June 7.—The most destructive rain-storm in many years passed over this vicinity last night. All the low lands in every direction were flooded, and a great destruction of crops is reported. Along the Illinois River bottom-lands everything was washed away, including houses, barns and stock. North-east of this city several houses were swept off, the inmates barely escaping with their lives. Large numbers of hogs and other stock were drowned. One farmer reports 200 fat hogs gone. In the south-east the losses are still more extensive. Fences, bridges, culverts, railroad tracks, and everything movable having been swept away. Several narrow escapes from drowning are reported. One invalid, compelled to move out in the storm, died of exposure this morning. All the coal mines east and south of here are flooded. On Spoon River the damage is reported as still greater, but no particulars can be obtained, as all communication is severed. The Toledo, Peoria and Western and Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railroads are both badly damaged. The bridges are gone and the track washed away. The damage to the crops is very heavy. All grain on the low lands is washed out, but the higher prairie farms have not suffered so much. Later reports make the damage much worse than was at first reported. Ten miles of railroad track and several bridges are going. Two deaths by drowning are reported.

THE BRIDGEPORT TRAGEDY.

Eighty Thousand Dollars in Securities Missing—A Reward of $10,000 Offered for their Recovery.

From Our Own Correspondent.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Friday, June 7, 1872.

MAY 13, 1872.—The following are the securities which I now hold, and those marked with the letter "D" I shall on my arrival at New-York place in the Safe Deposit, No. 120 Broadway, Equitable Building, for convenience.

D—Ten Central Pacific, first mortgage, six per cent., $10,000.

D—Eight Union Pacific, first mortgage, six per cent., $8,000.

D—Twelve Connecticut Valley, first mortgage, seven per cent., $12,000.

D—Twenty-nine United States Government five-twenties, 1867, January and July, $29,000.

D—Fifteen United States Government five-twenties, 1865, March and November, $15,000.

D—Six Connecticut State sixes, $6,000.

Five Danville, Urbana, Pekin and Bloomington Railroad, $5,000.

Ten Shepang Valley shares, $1,000.

Twenty-one Cochester Water Loan bonds, $21,000.

I also hold life insurances to the amount of $193,000 and coupons due 1st of May on United States Bonds.

G. M. C.

The supposition is that Capt. COLVOCORESSES started for New-York with these securities in his possession, but was robbed and murdered in Bridgeport, as has already been related. A reward of $10,000 for the recovery of the missing securities has been offered by Mr. GEORGE M. WOODRUFF, of Litchfield, his executor.

The story of his murderer having been seen in New-Haven is thought by the police to be without foundation.

EMPIRE OF GERMANY.

From Our Own Correspondent.

BERLIN, Saturday, May 18, 1872.

Prince BISMARCK'S illness—revealed too early by a week or two by an editorial indiscretion—and the great statesman's imminent temporary retirement invests the approaching break of the session with peculiar interest. It is well know that the Chancellor's departure from Berlin is not to be the last before his involuntary holiday, and that he will return after Whitsuntide to wind up the most urgent State affairs now pending. Still the finger of the clock is pretty close upon midnight, and the Whitsuntide recess spontaneously suggests the idea of the longer recess to come. Germany without BISMARCK even for a few months, nay, even for a fortnight, is ample matter for prolonged journalistic reflection, embodying as it does the political problem which no one conversant with German politics, not even its own hero, has had the courage to solve. The often-raised argument of his own indispensability is about to receive an unanswerable refutation. Eighteen months ago one can fancy how the tidings of "continued sleeplessness, necessitating total retirement from work," would have made all France ring with delight. At the present period moralists will not be wanting to sermonize Germany on the necessity of learning in time how to manage in a state of things which must one day inevitably come, nor pious Ultramontanes to declaim on the first punishment decreed by Heaven against the assailer of the Mother Church. However wise or appropriate either of these moralizings may be, it is too early to discuss the state they presuppose before it has actually come about, and until we know exactly how far the "Iron Prince" will follow his physicians' advice. Strict fulfillment is out of the question; while BISMARCK lives he will grasp the sceptre. It is evident that the last six years of constant excitement and wearing work have been too much even for his "iron" constitution. Absolutism has its burdens as well as its privileges, and BISMARCK'S task has been absolutist in the strongest sense of the word, requiring one brain to work it out, and one hand to accomplish it.

THE JESUIT PETITIONS.

From a parliamentary point of view of stage management, Prince BISMARCK'S retirement inferias could not have been better arranged than after the explosion of the great Jesuit bomb, which the world has so long been looking forward to. It has been the fate this year of various important measures to come before the parliamentary forum by means of petitions. The Jesuit question is among the number. No less than 1,315 petitions on the subject have been presented, only seventy attacking the order, while 1,245, "with ten times the signatures," stand up for the brotherhood. Two complaints against "Freemasons" have been tacked to this stack of papers, for what reason is not apparent. Freemasons and Jesuits have never been mistaken the one for the other. A committee was appointed some time ago of members of the various parties, and the upshot of their deliberations was summed up in three reports, embodying about the three only views that could be taken at all of the matter, viz.: One, friendly, recommending to pass over the petition to the order of the day; the other, hotile, urging Government to inquire into the matter, and bring forward a repressive measure in the course of the present session; and a third, indifferent, simply advising Parliament to appoint a committee of examination. The most significant limb of this triple growth is that to which I have accorded the second place; one-half of this report was passed by twenty-four votes out of forty in Committee, and the other even by twenty-eight, The Committee reports were supplemented by a few independent motions coming from without, but bearing an unmistakeable party character. One of these, proposed by the Conservative leader, M. WAGENER, and modified by a liberal Conservative amendment, has in the end been successful.

POSITION OF THE ORDER.

It deserves to be remarked at the outset that the Order of Jesuits have not hitherto been legally recognized in the greater number of the German States, and that their existence has really never been more than based upon sufferance. Hence the difficulty of dealing with them in legislation. In several States their presence is permitted only in the character of visitors, in others not even with that restriction, and it is most worthy of notice that the principal Catholic State, viz., Bavaria, possesses about the most rigorous repressive laws against them. Notwithstanding this, the Bishop of Ratisbon, who is their most ardent protector in that Kingdom, has succeeded in gathering about him a permanent staff of some eighty. FREDERICK the Great of Prussia was very amicably disposed to the Order, who stood his political friends, and for whose discipline and organizatory perfection he professed admiration. That was an argument not to be despised in the present controversy, and was consequently brought forward by Dr. MONFANG with great adroitness. It was, unfortunately, neutralized for rhetorical purposes by the recital of LEWIS I.'s (of Bavaria,) violent denunciation against the "Pretorian Guard of the Pope," and, moreover, it was justly argued that in absolute Prussia of FREDERICK the Great, clerico-political organizations were less necessarily dangerous, because better to be kept in check, than in the semi-constitutional kingdom of his descendant. The second difficulty to be encountered is the irrefutable charge that the Jesuits misapply, for party ends, such constitutional liberties as are in fairness accorded to them. Whether they be admitted as schoolteachers or as priests, as vice-attendants, or come only as private persons, they invariably tried means to evade the provisions of the law for the purpose of Ultramontane propaganda. Thus, no lawgiver and no administrator knows where to have them; moreover, there is no formal head to make responsible for these doings. Truly might a Prussian Minister say that in this case he wrestles "not with flesh and blood, but with principalities and powers, with the rulers of darkness, &c."

THE INFLUENCE OF EVENTS.

The religious controversy which has recently been raging throughout Germany and Austria greatly added vigor and importance to the discussion in Parliament. The Jesuit debate proper obtained a notoriety prelude in Monday's debate, on the rejection by the Pope of Prince HOHENLOHE, à propos of the Foreign Offices estimates. That sitting was in so far more remarkable than its successor, since Prince BISMARCK took an active part in the debate—which he did not on Wednesday and Thursday—and uttered emphatic words which could have no doubt as to his situation. His declaration that the German Empire will now "go to Canossa, either bodily or spiritually," one of his best chosen similies, still rings in the ears of Germany. The subject was really the same in the two debates, for the present one is not directed specially against Jesuits, nor against the diplomatic management of the See, but against the whole Catholic policy, of which those two instances are but parts and limbs. The Prime Minister's declaration was required because an impression had become general that the German Government, despite its energetic protests and menaces, really hated Ultramontanism "merely in a Platonic way," as a dramatist has aptly put it. Plenty of loud words have been used, but hard words proverbially break no bones, and BISMARCK has not yet ventured beyond the limits of threats. The recent rumors of an approach between the two once confederate Powers, absolutism, temporal and religious, added force to the popular suspicion; and thus a fresh indication of the official mind was absolutely indispensable. It has been provided not only by Prince BISMARCK'S speech, but also by the vehement articles printed in the official Provinzial Correspondenz, subjecting the Bishop of Courland's defense to a withering critique, and announcing imminent measures against the practice of excommunication.

THE SPIRIT OF THE VATICAN.

It ought not to be overlooked that Catholicism has of late identified itself with Ultramontanism and Jesuitism, asserting the two to be only different names for the same thing. The evil spirit of the Vatican Council is still upon the Church, hindering a compromise such as the rejection of the extreme party would infallibly effect. Were the Pope to deny his solidarity with the Jesuits, there can be no doubt that the German and Austrian Governments would become from fierce enemies zealous friends. It deserves notice, by the by, that in Monday's debate the Prince Chancellor declared the continuance of diplomatic representation at the Vatican imperative and indispensable. That is not only a tribute to the importance and power of the See, but also an implication of a readiness to live on good terms.

THE PARLIAMENT.

Considering the broad basis on which the question before the House was raised, embracing matters social, religious and political, the relation between Church and State, the question of corporative rights and of absolute State supervision, it is not surprising that motions were not only numerous, but took a most diversified shape. The Catholics were willing to subject the obnoxious order to an inquiry, on the well-founded supposition that no tangible proof of real infraction of the law could be made out. On the other hand, they refused, with plausible constitutional arguments, to consent to a proscription of the order, merely on account of its being Jesuit. The corporate rights accorded to trades' unions, to co-operative societies, to hospitals and benevolent institutions, cannot surely, without a gross infringement of constitutional principles, be denied to religious associations, who, for aught that is known, may be as harmless as Sisters of Charity and Johannister Knights. The actual result of the debate is a resolution demanding common legislation throughout the Empire to protect citizens against clerical disciplinary encroachments, and securing perfect equality to all religious creeds, by an additional recommendation urging Government to frame a law preventing the misapplication of constitutional rights by religious corporations; chiefly by the Jesuit order. However energetic these resolutions may sound in the original text, their meaning is really very vague, and their effect must be most problematical, especially since the initiation is left entirely to Government, whose leanings to Ultramontanism are still not above suspicion. The point of greatest import is the decision to make the desired legislation common to all the Empire, which is the only way to secure its efficiency. That Prince BISMARCK will put forth some repressive decree on the strength of this vote is not to be doubted after he has already expelled Jesuits from the Polish provinces. But it is not likely that by such simple means the order will be permanently defeated. As it has hitherto evaded even the most stringent provisions of the existing law, it will doubtless be able to evade such additional precaution as this new foe may prescribe, and which by their superior ingenuity will be made to effect no more than a temporary change, bringing Germany back in course of time, practically to the same point at which it at present stands.

It is reported in Texas, much to the disgust of the Democrats, that Col. JOHN D. ELLIOTT, of the Austin State Gazette, has gone over to the Davis Administration.

It is said that the late Chief-Justice WESTON, of Maine, was never absent from duty a single day on account of his health during the thirty years he was on the Bench.

R. T. DANIEL and JOHN A. MEREDITH announce themselves Conservative candidates for Congress in the Third District of Virginia, subject to the decision of the Convention.

The Class of 1822, of Dartmouth College, will celebrate its semi-centennial at the coming Commencement. Of the forty-seven members at the time of graduating, thirty-five still live—a very large proportion.

The Milwaukee Wisconsin recommends Hon. CHARLES G. WILLIAMS for Congress from the First District of Wisconsin. He is young, but has been an efficient and popular member of the State Assembly and Senate.

The Chicago Times does not yet regard it as certain whether the Baltimore Convention will nominate a ticket or devolve that duty upon a subsequent Convention, in which other political elements may be represented.

Three of the dozen papers in Illinois which Greeley organs have claimed for GREELEY, repudiate the alliance, and the Chicago Journal asserts that not a single Republican paper in the State, of good standing heretofore, now supports the Cincinnati nominees.

The Connecticut Legislature has been petitioned by $2,000 citizens to repeal the taxes on assets of mutual insurance companies, but the New-Haven Journal thinks the temper of the times indicates an increase of insurance taxes rather than a reduction.

The Alumni of Phillips Exeter Academy are all invited to be present at the dedication of the new building on Wednesday, June 19. The completion by GIDEON L. SOULE, LL. D., the venerated principal of the Academy, of fifty years in its service will be commemorated at the same time.

The Boston Transcript, after alluding to the unfortunate result of Senator SUMNER'S recommendation of a postmaster at Salem, Mass., says: "It may be interesting to add that the ex-postmaster now finds congenial occupation at New-York in the Greeley movement, having returned to service on the personal staff of Major-Gen. KILPATRICK."

There was a queer marriage ceremony in a Minnesota town the other day. It was in a ball-room, and the floor was occupied by dancers, except in the centre, where room was left for one set. Here the would-be happy pair took positions, accompanied by three newly-married couples, and a clergyman stepped into the centre of the circle and performed the ceremony. Then the music struck up, and the dance went forward as if nothing had happened.

The Connecticut Senate is puzzled. Gov. JEWELL has been absent from the State since Monday, and under the Constitution Lieut. Gov. TYLER is acting Governor. On Tuesday, the latter officiated as Lieutenant-Governor in the Senate, and the question now raised is whether business could be legally transacted with the acting Governor presiding instead of the President pro tem. The Judiciary Committee are cudgeling their brains to find an answer.

THE BELGIAN MURDER.

The Accused, Voght, Brought up on a Writ of Habeas Corpus—Decision Reserved on the Question of the Prisoner's Extradition.

Pursuant to adjournment, the argument in the case of CARL VOGHT, accused of murder and robbery in Belgium, on the proceeding to send him back under a writ of surrender issued by Gov. HOFFMAN, came up before Judge CURTIS, in Superior Court, Special Term, yesterday. On behalf of the people, Assistant District-Attorney SULLIVAN made a return that the prisoner was held by the Warden of the City Prison under a commitment for larceny; also, that he is held under a warrant of surrender issued by Gov. HOFFMAN.

Mr. JOHN H. ANTHON, on behalf of the prisoner, argued in opposition to the constitutionality of the Governor's writ of surrender. The act, he said, under which the writ was issued was passed in 1822. The Governor of Vermont had assumed to exercise authority to extradite criminals to Canada, and in that case it was decided by the United States Supreme Court that the power of extradition was vested exclusively in the Federal Government, and that the action of the State Government was without authority. The same decision maintains that the authority to remove dangerous characters from the boundaries of a State is vested exclusively in the Federal Government also. An agreement by a State in a particular case to deliver a criminal to a foreign country, is equally in conflict with the authority of the General Government, as would also be a general treaty for the surrender of criminals. Counsel cited several opinions of Attorney-Generals of the United States to the same effect as the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States. To allow States to exercise the right of extradition, each on its own responsibility, would create endless confusion.

Mr. FREDERICK F. COUDERT, in favor of the right of surrender, argued that the testimony presented to the Governor was such as fully brought the case within the provisions of the act under which action had been taken. The police power for the protection of the people, inherent in the Governor, he said, was of itself sufficient to warrant the prisoner's extradition. Under the provision of the Constitution that the powers not conceded to the General Government is reserved to the States, and in the absence of any treaty between the United States Government and Belgium, the authority to surrender rests with the Governor of the State.

At the close of the argument Judge CURTIS took the papers and reserved his decision.

JOHN H. ANTHON, JACOB A. GROSS and WM. F. KINTZING, appeared for the prisoner; ALGERNON S. SULLIVAN and FREDERICK F. COUDERT, for the people.

CUBAN AFFAIRS.

The Trouble with the Spanish Bank—Anticipated Riot—Successful Measures of Prevention—The Financial and Political Situation.

From Our Own Correspondent.

HAVANA, Saturday, June 1, 1872.

The far-famed Havana volunteers have been defeated for the first time since their organization, and Havana has been saved as if by magic from witnessing the threatened incendiarism, riot and murder. The act of the authorities in allowing BEMBETA to leave in the same quiet way as he arrived, had produced a great deal of bad feeling, and the machinations of the numerous cliques among the Havana Spaniards received an impetus thereby, one party with its aid increasing the excitement among the cigar-makers and other laboring people, arising from the discount of the notes of the Spanish bank. On Sunday last, the first rumblings of the storm were heard. Knots of men assembled in the wards mainly occupied by the working classes. These discussed some plan by which they could be saved from the imposition practised on them, firstly, by the man who employed them, and secondly by the grocer or retail merchant who sold them the necessaries of life. The working men became bold on learning that the Cuban operatives had consented to join them, and on Monday the excitement augmented, and gold rose and pamphlets began to circulate. These pamphlets were intended to arouse the feelings of every working man. The first was of a political color and did not refer to the financial question, except in an indirect way. It was headed "Alerta," and it called on all good Spaniards to hate VALMASEDA, the man who had humbugged them, and who was now quietly reposing in a small palace on the banks of the Canto, pretending to fight the insurgents, but in reality only keeping away from the work at his palace. Not an item of interest, not a single engagement, or even movement of troops had been reported from the Eastern Department, and the people very naturally believed every word of the paper. This document was written by Spaniards and opponents of VALMASEDA, the names of Colonels JULIAN GULUETA, RAMON HERRERA and Capt. OLANO, being frequently mentioned as the authors or prompters thereof. A second sheet exposed the swindling transaction, by which Mr. DOMENECK, a bankrupt merchant, obtained, through Col. CHESSA, the Chief of the Staff, the contract for supplying the troops of the whole island at rates about seven hundred thousand dollars in advance of other offers. His principal opponent, Mr. RAURELL, went in company with Secretary ARAISTEQUI to Canto del Embacadero. VALMASEDA fumed and fretted, and telegraphed a most insulting message to Gen. CEBALLOS for explanations, to which the latter retorted in a similar tone. The fact is, Col. CHESSA sent a peculiarly-worded telegram to VALMASEDA, the answer to which could be construed in any manner. Gen. CEBALLOS thereupon signed the contract as VALMASEDA'S representative. The pamphlet which gave a full account of the transaction stated plainly that Col. CHESSA received fifty thousand dollars for his share in the transaction. VALMASEDA annulled the contract insomuch as to give DOMENECK the supplying of the Eastern and RAURELL that of the Central Department.

A CUBAN MANIFESTO.

These, and one or two others, were Spanish documents, but the Cubans, not to be behindhand, and also in order to keep up the spirits of their countrymen, circulated freely opposition papers of the usual declamatory order. The results of these machinations began to show, and Thursday afternoon, being the celebration of Corpus Christi, was fixed upon as the time to storm the building of the Banco Español, several other banks, and of the Brokers' and Exchange Offices. A plan was laid to burn the buildings, to go to the houses of the Presidents of the banks and of the proprietors of the exchange offices and hang them to lamp-posts, and to deal in the same way with two foreigners, one an Englishman and the other a German, who speculated heavily in gold during the past Winter. Part of this plan was publicly talked about, and the remainder was revealed to the acting Captain-General by the wife of a volunteer Captain, who overheard the conspirators. The procession of Corpus Christi was not to take place, so as not to give the volunteers a legal chance to assemble, but in the evening Gen. CEBALLOS revoked the order, asserting that he was not wont to show the white feather. He immediately began preparations to resist an attack or put down a riot. He consulted with the Admiral, and found that he could depend on over 1,200 well-armed sailors and marines. He then notified every officer on sick leave or on leave of absence to send their servants to the Cabaña. He was surprised to find that, between non-commissioned officers and servants, he had 1,475 men at his disposal, besides 639 officers about the city. A telegram was then sent to Col. JUAREZ VIGIL, commanding the volunteer artillery, to which many Cubans belong on whom he could depend, and also to the First Volunteer battalion, commanded by that sterling old gentleman, JOSE M. MORALES. The entire volunteer cavalry, composed of the so-called Malojeros, (all Cubans,) were found to be willing to support CEBALLOS against the rioters, and Brig.-Gen. LONO, commanding the Cabana and Morro, was grimly twisting his mustache and inwardly praying that the bank would be attacked, so as to afford him the ineffable pleasure of throwing a few shot and shell. The Guardias Civil and Guardias Rurales, from neighboring places, were called in, and on Thursday noon CEBALLOS had nearly six thousand well-armed and drilled men, all of them out of sight, but ready at a moment's notice to fall upon the rioters. But everything remained quiet, and the procession returned to the cathedral forty-three minutes after it started, going over the usual ground which, it always takes over two hours to traverse. Gen. FERRER commanded the troops, and instead of letting the cavalry bring up the rear, he placed it behind the priests, a thing never heard of before, but done for the purpose of giving them elbow-room, and preventing them from being hemmed in by the Volunteers. The Fifth Battalion of Volunteers was on guard; the sentries at the Spanish Bank were increased to four times their regular number, and an officer was sent there—three companies of the battalion remaining at the Cuartel de la Fuerza, ready for any emergency. Who knows but that the fact of the Fifth Battalion being on guard, prevented the meditated riot! Don MIGUEL DE LA PUENTE, who imagines himself a financier because he makes money on seventy millions of dollars, on which he pays the interest due only on six millions, published a long tirade in the Diario, trying to prove that the Spanish Bank is perfectly solvent, that the forty millions of paper not guaranteed by anybody or anything are first-class securities, and will be positively redeemed, and that the high price of bills of exchange has been the cause of driving up the premium on gold, as if the rates of exchange were not regulated by the necessities of commerce and their value fixed by the currency of the country, which here is a very poor one.

THE SITUATION.

So the question stands today: Gold has a mere nominal value, no sales being made; and it would be difficult to obtain any large quantity at less than from fifteen to twenty per cent. premium, as it is almost dangerous to be known as a buyer. The exchange offices are all closed since Wednesday afternoon, when Gov. ZABALZA called the proprietors together, requesting them not to transact any business for some days.

QUASIMODO.

The Gordon-Gould Suit.

In the Supreme Court, Part I., before Judge BRADY, yesterday, pursuant to an order previously granted, GORDON GORDON was called to appear for examination and failed. Mr. STRAHAN, on behalf of his client, GORDON, stated to the Court that he had received a letter from his client; he expected he was necessarily detained, and therefore asked an adjournment for a reasonable time.

Mr. DAVID DUDLEY FIELD, on behalf of GOULD, moved that GORDON'S complaint be dismissed, as the latter had failed to appear. He had no doubt, he said, that GORDON had left the country, and that it would prove another instance in which litigants had been driven from the State by the Judiciary.

Judge BRADY asked if Mr. STRAHAN could give him any assurance that Mr. GORDON would appear for examination within a reasonable time. To this Mr. STRAHAN replied that he entertained no doubt of the fact, but did not feel at liberty to give his personal assurance.

Mr. DAVID DUDLEY FIELD then asked that the letter be submitted to the Court, to which Mr. STRAHAN refused assent, saying that, as it was a confidential communication from his client, he did not think it proper to do so.

After a private consultation between counsel on both sides and the Court, it was ordered that the complaint of GORDON be dismissed, but with the proviso that, if he appears on the 20th and submits to an examination, the default will be opened.

MASONIC.

The Grand Lodge was opened yesterday morning with prayer by R.W. and Rev. JOHN G. WEBSTER, Grand Chaplain, after which business was proceeded with. On motion of R. W. JAMES M. AUSTIN, a resolution was adopted, directing Subordinate RODGERS to pay full Grand Lodge dues on all members, on roll at the close of each year, and requiring no fractional dues for Masons made between January 1 and June, thus greatly simplifying the annual returns. The question of the Constitution was again brought up and the action of the day previous repealed, by the adoption of a resolution offered by M. W. JOHN L. LEWIS, providing for a convention consisting of one delegate from each Masonic District to meet for the purpose of revising the Constitution, at such time and place after Jan. 1, 1873, as the Grand Master should direct. Delegates to be elected by a plurality of votes of lodges in each district at elections held before Oct. 1. The sessions of the Convention to continue not longer than four days, and the actual expenses to be borne by the Grand Lodge. At 10 A. M. the newly-elected Grand officers were duly installed, the ceremonies being impressively performed by M. W. JOHN H. ANTHON. Grand Master CHRISTOPHER G. FOX appointed as Committee on Printing R. W. STEPHEN W. MARSHALL, W. JOSIAH SHORE, and R. W. WM. A. BRODIE. On motion of Deputy Grand Master E. E. THORNE, a resolution was adopted that inquiry by Grand Lodge officers into the financial condition of subordinate lodges be abolished. The Committee on Jurisprudence presented a report embodying several recommendations of importance, all of which were adopted, viz.: 1. That no lodge can divest itself of jurisdiction when charges are made in open lodge by a member against a fellow-member, nor can it delegate its authority to a commission to be appointed by the Grand Lodge without the consent of the accused. 2. That a vote for the expulsion of a member of a lodge on charges preferred requires a majority vote of all brothers present in lodge, and the requirement is enforced that all present must vote on the question at issue. 3. That while each lodge has the right to select its own material, it is asserted to be unmasonic, unlawful and a breach of Masonic courtesy for a lodge to initiate, pass or raise a candidate after having been advised by a sister lodge, or by brethren in good standing, that such candidate is unworthy or unfit to be made a Mason. A resolution fixing the salary of the Grand Treasurer at $1,000 per annum was offered and referred, but no action taken. R. W. G. H. RAYMOND, Grand Lecturer, announced that he had appointed R. W. ISAAC H. BROWN assistant Grand Lecturer. The special Committee on the decease of grand officers of other grand jurisdictions presented a report, which was adopted, that engrossed resolutions of condolence be forwarded to the Grand Lodge of Texas, to the Grand Lodge of the Three Globes, at Berlin, Prussia, and to the Grand Lodge of Saxony, expressive of the sympathy of the Grand Lodge of New-York in the loss of their Grand officers, and also to the families of the deceased distinguished Masons. A motion for an increase of Grand Lodge dues twenty-five cents per member was made, discussed, voted upon and lost. A report on the Grand Master's address, sustaining his suggestions regarding the misuse of the blackball, was received and adopted. A petition, numerously signed, of brothers of the Jewish faith, asking for certain changes in the ritual, or rather for permission to omit certain words claimed to be sectarian, was presented, referred, reported on favorably and subsequently granted. R. W. GEO. H. RAYMOND was indorsed by the Committee on Work and Lectures, as in full possession of the standard work. During the evening, M. W. JOHN H. ANTHON, as representative of the Grand Lodges of Illinois and Michigan, and R. W. E. P. BREED, as representative of the Grand Lodge of Nevada, were received with the Grand honors. Final reports from the Committees on Grievances, Appeals, Charity, Finance and Printing were received. In the case of the two first-named committees the reports were of special interest, but mainly to the craft, and considerable debate was indulged in before the individual cases presented were decided. With but one exception, the decisions as made were sustained. R. W. E. E. THORNE gave notice that a spurious body, calling itself a Masonic Lodge, under the name of Devonshire Lodge No. 12, was now working in the Bowery in this City, and directing Masons to govern themselves accordingly. On motion of W. JOHN C. BOAK, the thanks of the Grand Lodge were tendered to W. WM. F. SHERWIN, and St. Cecile Lodge, of New-York, for music furnished at the opening of the Communication. A resolution was offered by W. JAMES E. MORRISON, and adopted, providing for the appointment of a Committee to procure a suitable testimonial, to be presented to past Grand Master JOHN H. ANTHON, as a recognition of his services to the fraternity. M. W. C. G. FOX appointed as such Committee, M. W., STEPHEN H. JOHNSON; R. W., E. P. BREED, and W., HENRY D. WALKER. Some other routine business was transacted, when the Grand Master announced that the associate appointed officers of the Grand Lodge and District Deputies, would be selected and named in a few days. The annual communication was then declared finished, and with prayer by R. W. and Rev. R. L. SHOONMAKER, the Grand Lodge was closed in ample form.

MRS. NANCY CLEM.

From the Indianapolis Journal, June 4.

The noon train on the Lafayette Road, yesterday, bore to Lebanon the defendant, counsel, principal witnesses, and others interested in the famous Clem case, which was set for trial that day in the Boone Circuit Court. Upon the arrival of the train an immense crowd gathered at the depot, eager to see the fair prisoner, and the Court-house was filled to its utmost capacity with deeply-interested spectators. Court was opened immediately upon the arrival of the party from this city, Judge THOS. F. DAVIDSON on the bench. The case of the State vs. NANCY E. CLEM, charged with the crime of murder, on a change of venue from Marion County, was called, and the defense made a motion to postpone until to-day at 2 P. M., on account of the absence of Messrs. GORDON and HANNA, two of the defendant's counsel. This motion the Court overruled, and the work of impannelling a jury at once commenced. This case will be about the same as heretofore, notwithstanding which, the interest seems to be increasing rather than abating. The attorneys for the defense are Leathers, Hanna, Gordon, Voorhees, Galvin and Weisner; for the State, Dye, Harrison, and Pierce and Griffin, Prosecuting Attorneys.

The Working Women's Home.

The Trustees of the Working Women's Home, No. 45 Elizabeth-street, give notice that they cannot receive any boarders on or after the 1st of July, as they have concluded to close the house at that time and to sell the property, for the following reasons: The great changes which have taken place in the surroundings of the Home make the location very undesirable for a boarding-house for respectable women. The Trustees regret exceedingly the necessity of closing the Home. The balance in the treasury, after the sale of the property and the liquidation of the debt will be so small that it will be impracticable, even if a suitable location and building could be obtained, to continue the enterprise.

Business in the General Sessions.

In the Court of General Sessions, Part I., yesterday, before Judge BEDFORD, JOHN BRADY pleaded guilty to petit larceny, and was sentenced to three months in the Penitentiary. JOHN BOWEN pleaded guilty to grand larceny; sentenced to one year's imprisonment in the State Prison. NELLIE NEWMAN was charged with stealing cloth from a store in Grand-street, and was found guilty of grand larceny, but the jury recommended her to mercy; sentenced to one year's imprisonment. The case of JUSTUS DUNN charged with stabbing and killing one of the keepers of the House of Refuge, was put off until Monday.

In Part II., before Recorder HACKETT, JAMES MCCARTNEY, charged with the manslaughter of EDWIN CARROL, on Christmas night, in the saloon kept by the prisoner, in Thirty-sixth-street and Eighth-avenue, was acquitted, the evidence showing that he had no intention of killing the deceased, and acted only in self-defense. JAMES MARTIN pleaded guilty to burglary, and was sentenced to ten years in the State Prison. MICHAEL DONOHOE pleaded guilty to an assault and battery, and was sentenced to five years in the State Prison.

PENNSYLVANIA.

Political Matters in the Western Portion of the State—The "Liberal" Movement and its Promoters—Sumner's Tirade—The New-York Times.

From An Occasional Correspondent.

PITTSBURG, Monday, June 3, 1872.

After putting forth the most herculean efforts, that most incorruptible and immaculate political saint, "ALECK" MCCLURE! has succeeded in obtaining about forty recruits, in Alleghany County, for the so-called "Liberal" ranks. The following call has just appeared in a Sunday paper:

"In response to the call of the Liberal State Central Committee, dated Philadelphia, May 3, a delegate meeting will be held on Monday evening at 7½ o'clock, June 3, at the board of trade rooms, corner Virgin Alley and Wood-street, for the purpose of forming a Liberal Executive Committee for Alleghany County, the representation to consist of two delegates from each election district. The cordial co-operation is solicited of all good citizens who are tired of the rule of rings—national, state and local—and in favor of the election of HORACE GREELEY and GRATZ BROWN."

The "Liberal" Press throughout the country will no doubt announce to its readers that the forty-four names appended to the above call are those of genuine Republicans. It is hoped, however, that no one will be deceived by any such announcement. The list of signers is headed by a life-long and uncompromising Democrat, known here, and perhaps elsewhere, as the "great resolutioner." Most of the others are of the same political faith, but, with three or four exceptions, not one of them is known here beyond the very limited circle of his own acquaintances. I have made diligent inquiry today, and I find that few of them have any social of political standing. I have resided here for about a quarter of a century, and enjoy a very extensive acquaintance with the citizens of Pittsburg, Alleghany, the surrounding boroughs, and the county generally, and I confess, honestly, that I do not know half a dozen of the signers, either personally or by reputation. They belong to that class of persons who sign anything, in order that they may see their names in print. I am fully convinced that the venerable gentleman who heads the list would not vote for HORACE GREELEY, on any terms, unless it would be to secure a "Consulship to Cork"—as he has expressed a desire for many years to visit his native land at the expense of Uncle Sam.

The true Republicans of Alleghany County, Pennsylvania, are a unit for President GRANT, and no issue that can be raised will swerve them from their already fixed purpose to re-elect him. It is true that there are a few—but very few—who are sometimes called "soreheads," who are not enthusiastic for his renomination and re-election at present, but when the time comes they will not be found wanting. This community is composed of the best type of Scotch-Irish and native Americans, who cooperate most harmoniously in every good work that has for its object the prosperity of their common country. Such men are not easily alienated from any cause which they espouse, because they must first become convinced of its justice and patriotism before they become allied to it, and whenever they are convinced that they are right they march on in solid and unbroken column to triumph and victory. There is a solemn conviction here in the minds of all true patriots that the affairs of the Government are being administered honestly and successfully. This conviction is strengthened greatly this morning—if it needed strengthening—by the announcement that the national debt has been reduced about three hundred and thirty-two millions of dollars since Gen. GRANT assumed the reins of Government. Honest, hard-working farmers and mechanics, industrious and upright merchants, will not "go back" on a President who, by a wise economy, is constantly reducing the national debt, and relieving the people of an onerous taxation imposed by the disloyalty and rebellion of the very men with whom HORACE GREELEY is now fraternizing, and by whose suffrages he seeks to be elevated to the highest function in the gift of the people of the United States. There was a time when the ex-editor (?) of the Tribune exerted a controlling influence and power over the the Republicans of this city and county, and Western Pennsylvania generally. But that time has passed. The people respect him for his past services, but they are more than persuaded that he is now in his dotage, "crotchety" and unreliable. If there is any doubt on this subject, let an appeal be made to the Postmasters in these cities and surrounding neighborhood, and they will corroborate the statement. I have it on the best authority, that there is scarcely a copy of the Tribune received at many post-offices where its sheets were formerly, on the arrival of each mail, as plentiful as the leaves of Autumn. The old "Philosopher" has committed political suicide. By this time his body "stinketh," and there is a universal desire to bury it out of sight. There may be an attempt made at Baltimore to galvanize it into life again, but it will be of no avail.

When it was flashed over the country that Mr. GREELEY had been nominated by the Cincinnati Convention as a candidate for the Presidency of the United States, I verily believed that a large portion of our colored citizens would enlist under his banner, but to my utter astonishment I have not been able, after a most careful and extensive search, to find one who is in favor of the Cincinnati ticket. In response to the question, "Will you vote for Massa GREELEY?" a very intelligent colored man said: "The colored people will never vote for a man, HORACE GREELEY or any body else, who asks for the votes of Democrats, who would enslave us today if they had the power. We will vote for Gen. GRANT, who is the candidate of our friends."

Apart from the "much by turns and nothing long" character of Mr. GREELEY, another reason why the "Liberal" cause can never obtain headway here is, there are thousands of Republicans and hundreds of loyal Democrats who believe that, to vote for the Cincinnati ticket is to vote for disunion, or war, or both. Mr. GREELEY has long since laid down the axiom that one or more States have the right to secede and set up an independent government for themselves. It is believed, therefore, that if he should be elected President of the United States, before the close of his Administration the Union would be split into fragments. Neither Republicans nor patriotic Democrats are prepared for such a result, so that, even if the forty-four signers to the above call were men of influence and mark in this community, they would be unable to accomplish anything.

The speech of Hon. CHARLES SUMNER, delivered in the Senate of the United States last Friday, has disgusted his best friends in this region. Many who were formerly very indignant when our local Press censured him for his conduct and his speeches, are now crying out, "Give it to him hot and heavy." The great statesman has degenerated into a mere demagogue, according to the present and popular acceptation of that term. The miserable rant to which he gave utterance would have insulted the dignity of the lowest bar-room politicians if it had been delivered in their presence. It must have been highly offensive to the good taste of grave and dignified Senators. Some palliation of his offense might be given if he had delivered his rodomontade on the spur of the moment or in the heat of debate. But no excuse of this kind can be offered, inasmuch as it is well known that his speech is the result of long and labored preparation. He has been carrying the burning volcano in his bosom for months. During the time that he was confined to his house by "sickness," about the beginning of the year, he was earnestly and constantly engaged in elaborating the harmless but no less vindictive tirade which he has inflicted on the Senate and the country, and which, after all the classical drapery with which he has covered it, is nothing more than a reiteration of the vile and contemptible slanders and misrepresentations which the World and the Sun, and other still smaller orbs, have been belching forth for months.

One of the most auspicious signs of coming political events is that the NEW-YORK TIMES is at supplanting the Tribune in all this region, and very soon there will scarcely a vestige of the latter be seen. So much for disinterested devotion to principles and party.

FRIDAY, June 7—P. M.

The satisfactory and enthusiastic result of the Presidential nomination at Philadelphia, and the announcement in the English Parliament last night that the Washington Treaty is virtually settled to the satisfaction of both Governments, combined to make a cheerful confidence in Wall-street today. The Stock Exchange was higher and speculation decidedly strong, while the Gold Room was lower, notwithstanding the continued export demand for Gold. The sales ran down 114⅛@114⅛@114@114⅛ ꝑ cent. There was a good offering of Exchange on London at 119⅞ ꝑ cent., less a brokerage, and the prospect is that the settlement of the Treaty difficulty will reopen both the London and Continental markets to free negotiations in American Stocks, besides carrying out considerable sales which were arranged for, contingent upon the removal of this trouble.

The Public Funds were again in strong demand, although the buyers for the 5-20s and the 5 per cents. dealt in abroad were scarcely able to execute their orders under the decline of ⅛@⅛ ꝑ cent. in Gold. It was rumored from Washington that the Treasury having been unable, on Wednesday, to buy 5-20s at or under the price of Gold, to the extent of $2,000,000 per week, will soon make a further call for the remainder of the 5-20s of 1862, at par and accrued interest in Gold. The Department has now at command any part of $300,000,000 of the New 5 per cents., selling within a fraction of the par of Gold, besides a Gold surplus, upon which the Secretary could rely for seventy or eighty millions within the ninety days' notice required to be given for the redemption of 5-20s.

The Stock Exchange opened firm on the Railroads. The political news, as noticed above, strengthened prices, and the conversion of the Vanderbilt Scrip, noticed yesterday, introduced a new element into the demand. The bearish feeling against the market, however, showed little or no yielding to the changed look of the speculation, and for several hours the contest on New-York Central and many of the Western Roads, threatened to lapse into dullness. But after 1 o'clock, the demand from buyers ran ahead of the supply at the morning rates, and the general market at the close of the Second Board was called strong. The Pacific Mortgages made a further advance on the Foreign news, and several other Railroad loans, held in check of late, were regarded with more favor. At the close of the Exchange, at 4 o'clock P. M., the following quotations were made as compared with Thursday night. Money in good supply at 5@6 ꝑ cent. on call loan:

The prices for New-York Central Scrip and Stock closely approached each other at the Second Board. There is a large business doing in both. Erie rose 3@3½ ꝑ cent. on yesterday's sales.

There were signs of the withdrawal of a large amount of Gold Coin intended for shipment by Saturday's steamers, and the price went down to 113⅞@114 ꝑ cent. A free business was done in Exchange for Saturday's mail, and at a concession from the drawing rates of yesterday.

The annual meeting of the Canton Land Company was held at Baltimore a few days ago. An amendment to the charter, passed by the Maryland Legislature last Winter, was accepted. The Report of the Directors was read and approved, and the Board for the ensuing year elected as follows: Messrs. Charles J. Baker, George S. Brown, Charles E. Waters, Charles Weber, William Kimmel, of Baltimore; Daniel Drew, Abraham B. Baylis, James H. Banker, Eugene N. Robinson, of New-York.

The Pacific Mail and Western Telegraph Stocks participated in the general improvement of the market today, though relatively the rise should have been greater on the Foreign question than on the Railroads. Both the Mail line and Telegraph Company would have felt most sensibly any serious interruption to our good understanding with England. The Express Stocks were all firmer.

The earnings of the St. Louis and Iron Mountain Railroad for the month of May were: 1872, $187,625; 1871, $117,665; increase, (1872,) $69,960. Jan. 1 to May 31, 1872, $978,367; 1871, $640,484; increase, (1872,) $337,883.

Messrs. HENRY CLEWS & Co. announce the complete absorption of the Bonds of the Burlington, Cedar Rapids and Minnesota Railway, of Iowa, issued against the main line; and now offer for sale a small loan of $2,200,000, secured in precisely the same manner upon the Milwaukee branch of the same road. This branch opens direct communication with Milwaukee and the Lakes.

The week's imports of foreign Dry Goods have been to the specie value of $1,086,419; amount marketed, $856,973.

We have been requested to call attention to the City Loan of $949,000 comprising Aqueduct Stock, Croton Water Stock, Croton Water Main Stock, Water Stock of 1870 and City Parks Improvement Fund Stock, bids for which will be opened by Controller GREEN on Tuesday, June 11, 1872.

BANKING AND FINANCIAL.

☞ INVESTING MONEY

A RAILROAD BOND
COMBINED.

In its 7.30 Gold Bonds the Northern Pacific Railroad Company furnishes to the public an investment security which combines the ready negotiability, the convenience and the high credit of a first-class railroad bond with the solidity and safety of a real estate mortgage on land worth at least twice the amount loaned.

They are offered at par in currency, and yield a HANDSOME PROFIT to those exchanging 5-20s.

The bonds are a first and only mortgage on the Road, its equipments and earnings, and also on a land grant which, on the completion of the Road, will average 23,000 acres to each mile of track.

They are issued in denominations from $100 to $1,000 Coupon, and $100 to $10,000 Registered, have thirty years to run, bear an interest of 7.30 per cent. in gold, and are EXEMPT FROM UNITED STATES TAX to the holder.

The semi-annual Interest on the Registered bonds is paid with GOLD CHECKS, sent to the Post-office address of the holder.

All marketable Stocks and Bonds received in exchange, without expense to the investor, at their highest current prices.

ARE GAS-HOUSES NUISANCES?

The People, &c., vs. New-York Gas-light Company.

—In the Court of General Sessions the defendant was declared a nuisance, chiefly by reason of the disagreeable odors emanating therefrom. From this an appeal was taken to this Court. On the part of the Company it was contended that, having used the best processes, with improvements, under the act of the Legislature, they were not liable as a nuisance, notwithstanding the operation produces a disagreeable stench.

Decision reserved.

The Pension Office.

Col. DOTY and his associates were, yesterday, very busy paying off those who receive pensions from the United States Government. The small rooms in the basement of the Customhouse were yesterday filled, but not inconveniently crowded with male and female pensioners, arrangements having been made that both should be paid at the same office, although not compelled to mingle together. Among the females were three Revolutionary widows, so old and feeble as barely to be able to visit the Pension office. They were accompanied by younger members of their family or personal friends. In the male department was noticed a soldier of the war of 1812, named TAYLOR, who is in his eighty-fifth year and very feeble. The pensioners of the last war willingly gave place to the old man, so that he might be able to get his pension first, one saying that "he would wait four hours, if necessary, to let him get his money." Col. DOTY exhibits a great amount of kindness in attending to the old and seriously afflicted, at the same time transacting the business of the office with a rapidity that is surprising. When the pensioners get their checks for the pension they take them to the Sub-Treasury, where they are paid without any delay. The amounts received by each applicant varies from $24 to $45, according to the nature of the case, and about 500 persons are paid off each day. This includes the time occupied in taking the necessary affidavits, making the entries, issuing the checks, &c.

The Case of Stephen B. Babcock.

In the case in which STEPHEN B. BABCOCK, the broker in Wall-street, is charged with having, on fraudulent papers, obtained American registers for foreign vessels, a motion was argued yesterday, before Commissioner BETTS, to dismiss the complaint and discharge the defendant, on the grounds that the evidence for the prosecution did not show that he knew the fraudulent character of the papers alleged to have been presented by him, and that in any event, admitting the facts alleged by the prosecution to be true, the law does not cover the case. The Commissioner reserved his decision.

I. CROSSING THE ATLANTIC.

A new volume of Sketches, similar to and uniform with "Ups and Downs." By AUGUSTUS HOPPIN. 1 vol. Oblong folio, ornamental covers. $5.

The salient features of an ocean steamer's voyage, its discomforts, amusements and picturesque incidents are delineated with graphic skill and delightful effect.

☞ Persons about starting for Europe should have this book to beguile the tedium of the voyage, and all who have ever crossed the Atlantic should have it as a souvenir.

In accordance with the provisions of sections 3 and 6 of the act of Congress approved June 1, 1872, entitled "An act making appropriations for the service of the Post-office Department for the year ending June 30, 1873," which sections are in the words and figures following, viz.:

SECTION 3. * * * And the Postmaster-General is hereby authorized to contract with the lowest bidder, within three months after the passage of this act, after sixty days' public notice, for a term of ten years from and after the 1st day of October, 1873, for the conveyance of an additional monthly mail on the said route, at a compensation not to exceed the rate per voyage now paid under the existing contracts, and upon the same conditions and limitations as prescribed by existing acts of Congress in reference thereto, and the respective contracts made in pursuance thereof; and the contractors under the provisions of this section shall be required to carry the United States mails during the existence of their contracts without additional charge, on all the steamers they may run upon said line, or any part of it, or any branch or extension thereof: Provided, That all steam-ships hereafter accepted for said service shall be of not less than 4,000 tons register each, and shall be built of iron, and with their engines and machinery shall be wholly of American construction, and shall be so constructed as to be readily adapted to the armed naval service of the United States in case of war, and before acceptance the officers by whom they are inspected shall report to the Secretary of the Navy and the Postmaster-General whether this condition has been complied with: Provided, That in all cases the officers of the ships employed in the service herein provided for shall be citizens of the United States, and that persons of foreign birth, who have according to law declared their intentions to become citizens of the United States, may be employed as though they were citizens within the meaning of this section, or of any act or acts specified in the act of June 28, 1864; and the Government of the United States shall have the right, in case of "war, to take for the use of the United States any of the steamers of said line, and in such case pay a reasonable compensation therefor: Provided, The price paid shall in no case exceed the original cost of the vessel so taken, and this provision shall extend to and be applicable to the steamers of the Brazilian line hereinafter provided for."

SEC. 6. That if the contract for the increase of the mail service between San Francisco and China and Japan to a semi-monthly service shall be made with the Pacific Mail Steam-ship Company, or shall be performed in the said Company's ships, or the ships of its successors in interest, the moneys payable under such contract shall be paid while the said Company or its successors in interest shall maintain and run the line of steam-ships for the transportation of freight and passengers at present run between New-York and San Francisco, via the Isthmus of Panama, by the said Pacific Mail Steam-ship Company, and no longer: Provided, That said requirement shall in all respects apply to any party contracting for the mail service between San Francisco and China and Japan, as well as to the Pacific Mail Steam-ship Company.

PROPOSALS

will be received at the Post-office Department, in the City of Washington, until 3 o'clock P. M., on MONDAY, the 12th day of August, 1872, for conveying the mails of the United States, by means of an additional monthly line of first-class American seagoing steam-ships of not less than 4,000 tons register each, and of sufficient number to perform twelve round trips per annum, between the port of San Francisco and the port of Hong Kong, (China,) touching at Yokohama, (Japan,) with a regular branch line running in connection with the main line between Yokohama and Shanghai, (China,) for a contract term of ten years from and after the 1st day of October, 1873.

Each bid should name the time proposed to be occupied in performing the passages each way, including stoppages at intermediate ports; and also the length of the stoppages at each of the intermediate ports. Schedules of sailing days, stating the proposed days and hours of departure from each port, as well as the proposed days and hours of arrival, should also accompany each bid. The departures must be so arranged as to alternate at equal and regular intervals with those of the present monthly line during its continuance, forming a regular semi-monthly service in connection therewith; such schedules, however, to be subject to the approval of the Postmaster-General, and to adjustment or alteration by his order, from time to time, as the interests of the postal service may require.

The steam-ships offered for the service must be American-built steam-ships of the first-class, in all respects conforming to the requirements of the laws authorizing the service, and before acceptance they will be subject to inspection and survey by an experienced naval constructor to be detailed for that purpose by the Secretary of the Navy.

Proposals must conform in all particulars to the provisions and requirements of the acts of Congress approved Feb. 17, 1865, and Feb 18, 1867, and of sections 3 and 6 of the above-cited act of June 1, 1872, and must be properly guaranteed with satisfactory testimonials that the bidder or bidders, and their guarantors, are men of property and abundantly able to make good their tender and guarantee.

The bidder or bidders must be an American citizen or citizens.

The bidder's name and residence, and the name of each member of the firm, when a partnership offers, should be distinctly stated. If made by a corporation the bid must be accompanied by a duly-authenticated copy of the charter or articles of incorporation and a list of officers and directors.

All bids exceeding the sum of five thousand dollars must be accompanied by a certified check or draft, payable to the order of the Postmaster-General, upon some solvent national bank, of not less than five per centum of the amount of one year's pay proposed in such bid or bids; such check or draft to be subject to all the conditions and provisions of existing laws in respect to forfeiture.

Any assignment or transfer of an ocean mail contract is expressly forbidden by law. Such assignments or transfers are null and void, and the Postmaster-General is required to determine any contract in case of its being under-let or assigned.

Proposals shall be sent under seal to "The Superintendent of Foreign Mails," with the words "Mail Proposals," "Japan and China route," written on the face of the address, and they should be dispatched in time to be received at this Department on or before 3 o'clock P. M. of Monday, the 12th day of August next, which will be the last day for receiving proposals under this advertisement.

JNO. A. J. CRESWELL,
Postmaster-General.

DAILY, WEEKLY AND SEMI-WEEKLY.

This journal is now thoroughly identified with the greatest political necessity of the hour—uncompromising warfare against all forms of corruption, whether in national or local government. For years past the TIMES has been exposing the demoralizing schemes of self-interested politicians, and its recent warfare upon the Tammany Democrats has been received with universal approval. It has adhered to the pledge given in its original prospectus, more than twenty years ago, that the public should be truly represented, and their interests faithfully guarded through its columns. Its record has been pure and honorable, and the highest aim of its proprietors is to render it more and more worthy of its past history, and of the confidence which the public repose in it. Two out of three of the original proprietors still direct its policy, and guide it on all public questions. They purpose that the TIMES shall continue to keep clear of all narrow and unworthy influences and cliques, and aim to represent the great body of the public, as distinguished from personal factions. It occupies a perfectly independent position, and is free to speak the truth on all subjects and about all men. Its greatly increased circulation throughout the country adds to its power and influence. It will continue to be a faithful exponent of Republican principles, recognizing the claims of American industry in adjusting the sources of revenue; and it will advocate with untiring energy every cause which tends to further the welfare of the people.

CAMPAIGN EDITION.

During the ensuing Presidential Canvass, we shall publish a Special Weekly Edition for the convenience of those who desire the latest and most trustworthy political intelligence.

THE NEW-YORK TIMES.
New-York City.

We shall publish the next issue of the Weekly Times as a triple sheet, in order to give our readers a full and accurate report of the National Republican Convention, held in Philadelphia. Persons desiring extra copies are requested to send in their orders early, as the edition will necessarily be large. Advertisers will find this edition a desirable opportunity to reach a large number of readers. Advertisements must be handed in before 10 o'clock Tuesday night in order to secure insertion. The Semi-Weekly of Tuesday next will also be issued as a triple sheet. Copies of both editions may be had at the counter; price, in wrappers, five cents each.

☞ Throughout the Presidential canvass, we shall publish fuller reports of meetings and conventions in each State than any other New-York journal. Very full dispatches will be forwarded by telegraph, supplemented by careful letters. Our desire is to place before the public the latest and most trustworthy information, and we have made ample arrangements for that purpose.

What Horace Greeley knew about his present manager, John Cochrane, is told in an article which we republish today from the Tribune. In that article Cochrane is treated to a variety of insults—he is accused of "dealing falsely," and of "betraying and deserting the cause of universal freedom." Mr. Greeley wound up his article in the following manner:

> "Gen. Cochrane has taken his stand in fact, whatever he may profess, with those who today refuse to colored Americans the right of suffrage, whether in the North or in the South, and will soon deny them the right of education, the freedom of the Press, and (if they dare) the right to sue and testify in courts of justice. Let him say what he will, the triumph of the party to which he has apostatized is the triumph of oppression, the disfranchisement of a race, the branding of our fathers as knaves or idiots in proclaiming that all men have an inalienable right to 'life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness,' and that 'governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed.' 'Hell from beneath' is stirred to demoniac joy by the spectacle of such a treachery, and every traitorous ruffian who, in the dark dens of this emporium, gleefully drank health and success to Jeff. Davis, while Lee's guns were thundering at Gettysburg, or, a few days later, fired draft offices and devastated orphan asylums in aid of the rebellion, will now rapturously hail Gen. Cochrane as a compatriot and a brother."

Now this is the very same John Cochrane who is Chairman of Greeley's Committee, and the party to which he "apostatized" in 1865 is the party whose votes Greeley is now humbly soliciting. Doolittle, Trumbull, Cochrane—all Greeley's present allies have been violently denounced by him as rogues, traitors, and knaves. They must find it a pleasing pastime to be dragging at his heels now.

It may be mentioned that the Greeley faction, notwithstanding the drumming up of John Cochrane, Fenton, Ben Wood and John Morrissey—Greeley's chief supporters—is so miserably "hard up" for money that the candidate's room at the Astor House has been closed. Our Uncle's supporters laid out the little ready money they had in white hats, and now they are completely aground. The merchants, bankers, and commercial classes generally will not take any Greeley stock—they know full well that business would be utterly paralyzed by Greeley's election, and consequently they are not likely to come to his rescue with funds. This is a bad lookout, but perhaps the Sage may derive some small profit from the sale of Mr. Sumner's quotations from Dana, Plutarch, and Plato.

Mr. Lloyd Aspinwall has been known for some time as among the very few honorable, or even respectable, men who sustained the Greeley General Committee in this City. As we announced yesterday, he has been compelled to abandon that crowd. This is his judgment of Mr. Greeley himself, which from long acquaintance he is abundantly qualified to give:

> "However highly the candidate of the Cincinnati Convention may be esteemed as a citizen, and may have justly earned an enviable reputation for benevolence and kind-heartedness, certainly the facility with which he swings round the circle, and indulges in extraordinary somersaults, entitles him to be considered as "first acrobat" in the political circus.
> How far he may be successful in the present attempt—that of riding two horses at once—remains to be seen."

The Tribune lately undertook to give a list of the prominent delegates to Philadelphia, now or recently holding official position, the object being to sustain the charge that the Convention was made up of Federal office-holders. The list includes eighty-five men, of whom four only hold appointments under the Federal Government, one as District Judge, one as Marshal, one as Postmaster, one as member of the Civil Service Board. The rest are, or have been, members of the House of Representatives, United States Senators, State officers, or Mayors, but are and have been in nowise indebted to Gen. Grant for their positions. This presents a very simple "example" in the rule of three: As four are to eighty-one, so are the truths in the Tribune to the falsehoods, which is independent journalism "ciphered down to a point," as Mr. Greeley would say.

Dr. Lanahan in Jail—The Reward for Exposing Frauds.

How the Methodist community will like the spectacle of a distinguished clergyman locked up all night in jail, simply for the offense of bringing to light great and undeniable frauds in the Methodist Book Concern, remains to be seen. People who do not happen to be Methodists will unquestionably look upon the event as a shocking scandal. The abuse leveled at us for exposing the Tammany frauds was not much greater than that which Dr. Lanahan has had to suffer for simply doing his duty as a Christian and an honest man. In his efforts to prevent most shameless frauds he has received, not the support of the Methodist persuasion, but determined opposition and bitter persecution. He has been treated as if he were the criminal, and as if the real culprits had rendered a great service to the Church. The man who exposes thefts is punished as the thief, while the thieves march off with bands of music and flying colors. Among the wordly-minded this will be looked upon as a most disgraceful proceeding; what, then, can be thought of it when it is enacted by elders and rulers of the Church?

If anybody in the Methodist Church sees anybody else picking and stealing, let him hereafter hold his tongue, unless he wants to be put in the place which the real offender ought to occupy. The suit brought against Dr. Lanahan is one of the flimsiest description. Goodenough is the nominal complainant, but it is well known that Dr. Carlton, and the other men involved in the Book Concern frauds, are at the bottom of it. They have contrived to insult the entire Methodist Church. Dr. Lanahan has already sacrificed much time and money in his earnest attempt to prevent wholesale misappropriation of a portion of the Church funds. The general public have no idea how much trouble and annoyance this gentleman has been made to pass through, simply because he could not look on at a system of cheating and be silent. All this does not satisfy Carlton and his friends. They must needs get a highly-respected minister dragged through the streets like a felon, and locked up half the day and all night in a prison. Will the Methodist denomination approve of this outrage? If so, the public will be not a little astonished, and we very much fear that the influence of the Methodist Church—at least in this City, where the circumstances are well understood—will not be increased.

There is another point in the affair which calls for immediate attention, because it concerns us all. It is the fresh illustration which it affords of the fact that the Sheriff's office may be used as the means of gratifying every kind of personal malice, provided you can bring sufficient "influence" to bear upon the Sheriff. In the palmy days of Tammany, no man's property or liberties were safe in this City. You might be hurried off to jail at any hour of the day or night, as many men besides Mr. Samuel Bowles discovered. The Sheriff's office was at that time a very convenient one, (for the rogues,) and it appears to be not much better now. Mr. Brennan seems to think that he has a despot's power in this City—that he can send men to jail as easily as a French King of last century could consign men to the Bastile with lettres de cachet. He has not yet fully opened his eyes to the fact that the "reign of law" is once more coming in, and that Star-chamber tricks will no longer be tolerated by the people. Here was a gentleman of high character and position in the Methodist Church—well known to hundreds of our chief citizens, and for whom bail for a million of dollars could have been found, if necessary, in five minutes—lugged off to prison like a common thief, refused permission to write a note to his friends, treated with studied insult, and hustled about and pushed into jail by Brennan's ruffians. When Bill Tweed, the biggest rogue of the age, was to be arrested, what did this same Brennan do? Sent him a private note, politely informing him that at a certain hour on a certain day the Sheriff would humbly wait upon His Highness, hoping that it would not cause him any inconvenience, &c., &c. At the appointed time, Brennan obsequiously made his bow to the "Boss," and—took him to jail? Not a bit of it. Then and there he made all the arrangements which Tweed was pleased to dictate, waited day after day for his convenience, and apologized for his intrusion. In the same way he treated the other Ring thieves. And yet, when a well-known clergyman is to be arrested in a malicious suit, supported only by ex parte affidavits, he sends two ruffians to insult and degrade him, and thus renders himself responsible for an outrage which will excite indignation far beyond the limits of the Methodist Church. Is it not about time that Brennan was made to understand that the days of Tammany insolence and tyranny are over? He will certainly think so when we come to expose the workings of his office, although for that exposure he may probably wish he could send a fresh relay of his gang on a special mission to this office.

A Difficult Task.

The new Tariff and Tax bill bothers the "Liberals" badly. They declared it would never pass, and it passed. They assured us that it was a hollow pretense of reduction, and it is undeniably a solid reality, lifting fifty-four millions off the tax-payers' shoulders. They pronounced it an intricate muddle, and it turns out to be as simple as such a measure could be, and the people understand it perfectly. They said that it would offend the free-traders and ruin manufacturers, and it is universally accepted by men of such opposing views as Messrs. Brooks and Kelley as the fairest possible measure for all parties. But now the bill is passed and signed, and no one can be deceived about it, the organ of Mr. Greeley (of all others!) comes down on the ten per cent. reduction in these words:

> "This measure evinces an unskillful manner of regulating duties, and is almost without parallel in the fiscal history of any other nation."

But whatever may be true of the fiscal history of other nations, the fiscal history of our own affords a very prominent parallel for this measure, in the famous compromise tariff of Henry Clay, passed in 1833, which reduced the duties by pro rata installments extending over nine years.

It is evident that in this direction, as in all others, the Greeley faction have little left to go on but inventions. But if there be one measure more difficult to practice their ingenuity upon, in the way of misrepresentation, than any other, it is the new Tax bill. The one tangible result of that bill—the equitable reduction of taxes—cannot be explained away or distorted.

The Eight-Hour Strikes.

The extensive strikes now going on in this City are of great importance to every portion of the community. It would be a very great mistake to suppose that their consequences can be confined to the workmen and employers immediately involved. The fact that they began in the building trades, even if they had not extended into so many other departments of industry, would make them of interest to every resident in this City of high rents and overcrowding.

The first thing which distinguishes them from most of the movements that have preceded them is their avowed object, which is, not to obtain more wages for the same amount of work, but to compel employers to give the same wages for one-fifth less work. The natural inference from this is, that they do not arise from any special and pressing condition of privation among the workmen. The strikers do not ask for better means of livelihood, but for a reduction of the amount of labor by which their livelihood is to be obtained. That the workmen have a right to make this demand no one will be foolish enough to deny. Their right to yield as little as possible for their wages is as plain as that of the employer to obtain from them as much as he can. But the nature of their object clearly destroys all excuse for violence or intimidation. What might be looked upon with some leniency in a body of men complaining that their labor did not afford them the necessities, or even the common comforts of life, and endeavoring to extort more of these, is without pretense of palliation on the part of men who practically declare that they are so content with their condition in other respects, that added leisure is all they now desire. For this reason, a good deal in the conduct of the working men toward those of their fellows who do not join in their movement—their direct and indirect compulsion, their threats, and in the case of the carpenter who was shot on Thursday, their violence—must be condemned without qualification. The condemnation ought to come, too, from the working men themselves, for they are the most injuriously affected by it.

When labor is absolutely lessened by one-fifth, there must be a corresponding decrease in the amount produced, and every man must pay a larger amount for his share in the product. This no one can be expected to do willingly or from motives of pure benevolence. The workmen who reduce the hours are presumably compensated by the increase in their leisure time, but other consumers will naturally require other compensation. This would be obtained if the leisure time secured were likely to be employed in a manner that would improve the efficiency of the workman, or add to his intelligence and value as a citizen. Whether this will be the result is yet an open question. The public generally cannot pretend to call the workmen to account for the way they spend their time. That is, in one sense, exclusively their own affair. But as they very generally claim that the movement is made to gain additional time for self-improvement, they cannot complain if public sympathy is largely determined by the prospect of that end being reached.

Whatever may be the result—whether the reduction is effected, or whether the time obtained is used well or ill by the workmen—there is no question that the method employed is one not creditable to either employers or employed as a class. It is an evidence that the boasted progress of our century does not deserve all the eulogy it has received, when the only way of coming to an agreement on the hours of labor between two parties whose interests are so intimately connected is by a forcible suspension of production which injures everybody. The question presented by this state of affairs is, can no better way be devised? It is not a simple question, nor is it one which any person or body of persons, outside those directly interested, can answer. But it is one that must be susceptible of an answer, and one the answer to which ought to be compelled by the unfortunate proceedings now going on in this and neighboring cities. It appeals to the plain common sense of the workmen and their employers, and no one of either class could render them a better service than by undertaking its solution.

In doing so, it is evident that the first condition of success is the recognition of the obvious but generally ignored fact that there is a basis of common interest on which to proceed. There is in every healthy business a rate of wages which employers can afford to pay for a given amount of work, and which will fairly compensate the workmen. It would seem that the only way to get at this rate, according to the present methods of both parties, is for the workmen to struggle for all they can get, and the employers to yield no more than they are compelled to yield. In a rough way, this process attains the result, but at an expense of wasted time and with an amount of actual suffering and bad feeling which is certainly deplorable, and which is not far from being disgraceful. The old and clumsy method has not the excuse for existence that no better is known. A better one is in practical operation in England today, and its distinguished author, Hon. Mr. Mundella, has explained it freely to American workmen. It is the method of arbitration—of submitting all differences to a Court composed of representatives of employers and employed. Until some similar method has been resorted to in this country, struggles such as the one now going on will justly be regarded as not only costly and injurious, but unnecessary.

At Last.

At last the streets are to be cleaned. The Police Commissioners yesterday decided that Contractor Brown's contract was void, and thereupon notified Capt. Thorne that he must immediately begin the work of removing the dirt that has been steadily collecting in the streets ever since Brown came into power. Capt. Thorne has been appointed Superintendent of the Street-cleaning Department, and on Monday next he promises that the work shall be begun. Let us hope that this time the proverbial new broom will sweep clean.

The new Superintendent has only to pursue a course opposite to that which has made Brown notorious, in order to discharge his duties in a way that will satisfy the public that he is the right man in the right place. It was the custom of Brown to select workmen chiefly on account of their want of legs or arms, or of their general decrepitude. Persons who have met the infrequent gangs of sweepers enrolled by Brown, have gazed in wonder upon their unique feebleness. They have watched the slow progress of the wooden-legged man with the broom, the apathy of the one-armed person with the cart, and the amazing decrepitude of the ancient shovel-bearers. The conversation of these men was carried on in a low, garrulous murmur that rose faintly on the ear as they approached, and died away as they vanished into the night, always an unintelligible, and for the most part, an apparently meaningless and involuntary murmur. It would be uncharitable to grudge feeble and crippled men any employment for which they are fit. Brown's men, however, were plainly unfit for the work assigned to them. This, of course, was a matter of no consequence to Brown, whose only desire was to draw his pay and disburse as little of it as possible. Under Capt. Thorne, we have a right to expect that neither a niggardly economy nor a desire to give employment to cripples, will be the rule of the Street-cleaning Department. The health of the City demands the utmost efficiency in the work of cleaning the streets, and Capt. Thorne will find that he cannot secure the results expected from him unless he employs a sufficient force of able-bodied, hard-working men.

Another of Brown's peculiar practices was to sweep Broadway and the Fifth-avenue, and thus delude people who saw the occasional cleanness of those two frequented thoroughfares into the belief that the rest of the City was equally clean. Now, the very quarters where a pestilence would be most likely to break out—the low-lying streets along the rivers, and the tenement-houses of the Fourth and Sixth Wards, and of the east side of the City—are the localities which should first secure the attention of Capt. Thorne's workmen. The streets have been so long neglected that the work of cleaning them is not so much a measure of comfort as an imperious sanitary necessity. The dust of Fifth and Madison avenues is a serious nuisance, that must be abated at the earliest possible moment; but the densely crowded and far filthier regions, where the poor are huddled together, cannot safely be left another day in their present condition.

There is, however, no necessity for cleaning the City piecemeal fashion. A certain number of days' work is required to thoroughly clean every street; and whether the different Wards are cleaned in rotation by the same gangs of men, or a larger force is set at work in every part of the City at once, the expense will be ultimately the same. The public expect that the work will be prosecuted with all possible vigor, and they will cheerfully submit to large expenses, provided they are honestly incurred, and result in the thorough cleaning of the City. They will, however, never submit to a repetition of Brown's paltry trick of cleaning a few of the most important thoroughfares, to the complete neglect of the natural hotbeds of disease.

It is worth while for Capt. Thorne and his assistants to investigate the question whether the use of salt water from the rivers in washing the streets, would be injurious to public health. Widely different opinions upon this subject prevail, some holding that the sea-water would be a positive prophylactic, and others that its salt would poison the air. Among our scientific men, there are many who are pefectly competent to settle this question, and they should be consulted at once—for if salt water can safely be used for flushing the streets, a few steam fire-engines could do the work of scores of sweepers, and do it far more rapidly and thoroughly.

The Cup that Cheers.

The periodical argument about tea is fretting the souls of the faculty and the journalists in London. Dr. Arlidge, a physician who speaks with authority, declares that a lamentable amount of sickness is caused by the use of tea among women of the working classes. Instead of using tea, he says, as an occasional beverage, they make it a principal article of diet, and drink it, usually without milk or sugar, several times a day. This is productive, he tells us, of various disorders, and in general of a deterioration of health among the working classes, and a lower vitality in the rising generation. Dr. Arlidge is one of the Pottery Inspectors acting under the Home Office, and, as the thoroughness and extent of his experience are unquestionable, his views are entitled to respect.

But even to judge from his own report, we doubt whether tea is responsible for all the ills he imputes to it. His statements as to the average health in the pottery districts must, of course, be accepted; we may, however, question his premises while acknowledging his conclusions. He informs us, for example, that at most meals these poor potters eat bread and butter as the only solid accompaniment to their tea. If hard-working people have no more substantial nourishment than this, and their physical condition, as is quite natural, runs down, it would seem there are other reasons than tea for the deterioration. As regards the absence of milk and sugar, on which Dr. Arlidge lays so much stress, the Chinese habitually drink their tea without those accessories, and they certainly are a stolid rather than a nervous people. But the Chinese do not drink beer, which is commonly regarded as a specific for stolidity, and here the potters and the English working classes generally have the advantage of them. Just now, however, sharp war is waged against beer in England, and indeed against all alcoholic beverages, and the question arises whether, if, as seems probable, tea and beer are mutually corrective—one operating as a nervous stimulant, the other as a sedative—the disuse of either would be entirely salutary. There is not the least doubt whatever that too much tea or too much beer is unwholesome; but the unfortunate truth is that good food is becoming in England so very costly, that large numbers of the working classes are unable to buy it, and that under such circumstances the resort to stimulants of one kind or another is almost inevitable. In some parts of England it is said that the various preparations of opium are actually resorted to by way of making up for scanty and poor food—a practice which implies a much worse condition of things than that which is indicated by excess in the use of tea and beer.

It is a remarkable fact, and yet one that seems to be little noticed by the English Press, that active exertions are now being made to get the working classes to forego the use of stimulants and "comforts" without which, ill-fed as those classes are, physiologists tell us, work cannot be done. What with the combinations against spirits, against beer, and the new movement against tea, it would seem that the English poor are asked to give up about all in the dietary way that makes life endurable to them. If the reformers, while carrying out their plans, could also arrange for cheap bread and cheap beef, there would be better hope that their labors would bring only unmingled good. Of this, however, we fear there is little hope, and the practical alternative for the poor laborers is to make their way to America. In our far-stretching plains of the West there is land enough and meat enough for all. There, those who work for their daily bread need have no excuse for making up by stimulants for the lack of wholesome food; and there, being so much nearer China, they may wash it down with as much tea as they like, and have no man to make them afraid.

MINOR TOPICS.

The Democrats of the House of Representatives yesterday absolutely refused to have the Supplemental Civil Rights bill made acceptable to them by the adoption of their own suggestions, and voted solid against it. Mr. Poland proposed to make the extreme penalty under the law one thousand dollars, and then one hundred dollars, but the prejudice against the negro is too strong among the "Liberal" Democrats to admit of their doing justice to him under any circumstances. These are the allies with whom Mr. Greeley is infatuated enough to believe that he can carry the negro vote.

What is by many regarded as the great event of the Spring meeting—the race for the Westchester Cup—comes off today, weather permitting, at Jerome Park. As we write the skies are decidedly uncertain, yet but little rain has fallen, and with drying winds in the night, followed by a bright sun, the track may yet be at its best. The race for the Cup is the third in the list today, and so, in this respect, has a good chance. The entries include Harry Bassett, Preakness, Midnight, Eolus, Express, Littleton and Monarchist, and a spirited contest is of course assured. Of these the horse first named is, we believe, the favorite; he is, at any rate, very heavily backed at odds, and, should he lose, a large amount of money will change hands. With a fine day, this occasion should be the most brilliant, so far, of the season.

Whether the "sweating" process is coming into active favor again or not, we are unaware; but the amount of light coin turned into the British mint of late seems to point that way. The sum represented by the gold brought for recoinage last year is equal to $3,500,000, which is far in excess of the amount in previous years. Light coin is taken in by the Mint on the same terms as bullion—that is to say, at the rate of £3 17s. 10½d. per ounce—and of course all that comes into the hands of banks, &c., thus finds its way back to the spot whence it first came. An amount so far exceeding the average loss by wear and tear implies that the coin has been "sweated" or otherwise attenuated, and the experience is likely to be followed by fresh and stringent investigations, and precautions to prevent like mischief in the future.

Now is the time for those who have faith in fortunes of the Napoleons to buy [illegible] rise. Pictures, statues, &c., of the heroes of the First and Second Empire can be had for a mere nothing compared to what they fetched two years ago. At a recent sale, a fine painting depicting the apotheosis of Napoleon I. went for $300, while inferior productions on popular subjects brought excellent prices. Shrewd Parisian picture-dealers know, no doubt, how to accommodate the ever-changing popular taste in this as in other matters, and have their Imperial régime masterpieces duly stored away awaiting the veering of the wind. The art sales in Paris continue to be very brisk. Probably the ruin to business which the events of 1870-1 occasioned, has caused thousands to part with nearly all their luxuries. Prince Napoleon's art collections were lately sold in London, and fetched £14,387.

The Earl of Shaftesbury, who is a bright particular star of the Evangelical party, and a favorite pendent at Exeter Hall meetings, stated, a few days ago, when presiding at the "Turkish Mission Aid Society," that it was quite a delusion to suppose that England was to be considered free from eruptions, such as those which have lately been making havoc around Vesuvius. He had frequently been told by the most eminent geologists that England constitutes the cover of a subterranean well of fire, and that she is liable at any moment to meet the fate of the district around Vesuvius. If it were possible for the noble Lord to raise himself in Dr. Cumming's favor, it would surely be by such remarks as these. To have your home on the cover of a well of fire is surely the very next thing to the millennium.

We alluded some weeks ago to the growing tendency in France to take a lenient view of legalizing gambling. It is significant that when a number of proprietors of gambling resorts in Germany lately interviewed M. Thiers on the subject, he intimated that he intended to remain perfectly passive on the subject, and should leave it altogether in the hands of the Legislature.

The Ring Trials.

The proceedings recently had before Judge Hogeboom, at the Albany Special Term, in the suits against Tweed, Connolly and Fields, are quite inaccurately reported by the Associated Press.

The tendency of each departure from the fact in the published reports is to produce an impression that the Judge entertained views adverse to the right of the Attorney-General or the State to maintain the actions, or at least that he expressed some doubts upon the subject. Nothing was said in any stage of the proceedings which could in any degree justify either of these inferences.

The judgment is the best evidence of the Court's opinion. It was peremptorily adverse to the defendants. Attempts are made in the reports and otherwise, to create an impression that it was merely pro forma. Such is not the fact. The Judge did, indeed, suggest in the course of the debate, that the parties, for the sake of speed, should waive all discussion and submit to such pro forma decision as the Court might think fit to pronounce, leaving to the defeated party his right of appeal. To this the State's counsel assented; but the defendant's counsel peremptorily refused. The Judge was, therefore, compelled to hear all that could be urged by counsel, and to adopt one of two alternatives. He could spend much time and labor in perusing the multitude of references furnished to him, and thereupon deliver with his judgment at some future period, as the result of his investigations, a carefully-prepared opinion in writing, or he could decide the cases at the close of the argument, in conformity with the impressions then resting upon his mind. He adopted the latter course. No stenographer was present when his luminous, able and eloquent oral opinion was delivered. This is much to be regretted, as its tone and sentiment were most admirable. It evinced the very reverse of a belief that official corruption was irremediable; and neither on the merits, nor on any other point in the case, did it express, or give color for, an inference that he entertained the slightest doubt as to the State's right to recover in the pending actions.

The published reports of these proceedings must have been prepared by some person or persons acting in the interest of the defendants, and palmed off upon the Press as genuine.

On the argument there was considerable effort to persuade the Court that the counsel for the people had manifested mistrust of their own position, or a lack of confidence in it. The printed reports now in circulation are in the same vein. Their object is to create an impression that the Courts have doubts.

This effort to discourage the friends of Reform will fail. None of the State's counsel have ever entertained or intimated the slightest doubt of ultimate success; and no Judge having authority to speak in the premises has ever expressed a doubt of the State's right to maintain the pending actions. False statements are rarely ventilated without some infusion of truth to give them color; and the reports in question are framed in this way. It is in some degree a judicial habit to prepare written opinions examining in detail the technical points relied upon by the condemned party and giving to each a precise refutation; and it is true that in these cases the Judges have hitherto avoided this labor. The language employed by them, in assigning reasons for this very excusable omission on their part, affords the only color for a pretense that any of them entertain doubts about these cases.

WHEELER H. PECKHAM.

The Greeley Vice-Presidents.

Judge Slosson, who was included in the list of Vice-Presidents at the Greeley meeting, desires it to be distinctly understood that he did not authorize such use of his name, and that he is not in sympathy with the movement in favor of the Tammany candidate.

Greeley on Cochrane.

From the New-York Tribune, Oct. 25, 1865.

"Gen. John Cochrane" was two years since nominated and elected Attorney-General by the Union Party of our State.

But a fresh election approaches, and he is not nominated—perhaps because no delegate to the Union Convention happened to think of it—possibly because rumors were afloat that he was already plowing with all manner of questionable heifers. Though he had not yet been slimed over preparatory to swallowing by John Van Buren, it was instinctively felt that he was getting ready to go down easy. Not being offered a fresh nomination on our side, and not having changed his politics for nearly if not quite four years, Gen. Cochrane seems to have concluded that it was high time for a somersault. Perhaps it was so.

But Gen. Cochrane can deceive neither himself nor others by talking of the "Weed-Raymond clique." Right well does he know that he is betraying and deserting the cause of universal freedom. Right well is he aware that he is dealing falsely, cruelly by the humble and imperiled four millions whom he was among the first to summon to pour out their blood in defense of the Union. No matter what protests and reservations he may see fit to make, Gen. Cochrane, like Gen. Slocum, Judge Grover and John W. Edmonds, after having summoned the blacks to our aid in a vital emergency, now whistles them down the wind, remits them unprotected to the tender mercies of those who think "a nigger is good in his place," but that his place is under the feet of the whites, and his true, God-ordained position that of a despised, spurned menial and drudge. Gen. Cochrane has taken his stand, in fact, whatever he may profess, with those who today refuse to colored Americans the right of suffrage, whether in the North or in the South, and will soon deny them the right of education, the freedom of the Press, and (if they dare) the right to sue and testify in Courts of justice. Let him say what he will, the triumph of the party to which he has apostatized is the triumph of oppression, the disfranchisement of a race, the branding of our fathers as knaves or idiots in proclaiming that all men have an inalienable right to "life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness," and that "governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed." "Hell from beneath" is stirred to demoniac joy by the spectacle of such a treachery, and every traitorous ruffian who, in the dark dens of this emporium, gleefully drank health and success to Jeff. Davis, while Lee's guns were thundering at Gettysburg, or, a few days later, fired draft offices, and devastated orphan asylums in aid of the rebellion, will now rapturously hail Gen. Cochrane as a compatriot and a brother.

Horace Greeley and the Colored Vote.

Mr. Greeley—so it is reported in the papers—says that the colored people in the South will not fail to remember his "antislavery record." So far as it goes, that is true; but when they go to the ballot-box, they will vote for principles, not men. Whatever may be said about the colored voters of the South—and some very hard things are said, and among the hardest were things from the lips of Horace Greeley—no one can accuse them of exercising prejudice. The colored people, since they have been permitted to vote, have universally voted with more unanimity for their former owners than they have for their own color or Mr. Greeley's carpet-baggers. They have voted, and will vote next August, for their former masters—the very men whom Mr. Greeley has made war against, as an Abolitionist, for forty years. But why is it that they will vote for their old masters, and will not vote for Mr. Greeley, who assisted in freeing them? Because those of their old masters they vote for belong to the loyal Republican Party of the country, whereas Horace Greeley is the candidate of a set of men who would sacrifice the black man and reduce him again to servitude, "or anything to beat Gen. Grant" and defeat the Republican Party. The black people of this State are aware of the fact that their freedom in this country depends upon the success—at least for a time—of the principles as enunciated and thus far faithfully and honestly carried out by the National Union Republican Party. They don't ask what a man has been—"what are his principles to-day?" If Mr. Greeley thinks otherwise he is sadly mistaken. The Democratic Party of this State are almost a unit for Mr. Greeley—or "anything to beat Grant"—and when they (the colored people) find that the bitterest and vilest of the Kuklux are hurrahing for Mr. Greeley they will know that that wind will blow them no good. There are not a dozen colored votes in North Carolina for Horace Greeley, unless he is the nominee of the Philadelphia Convention; and such will (not) be Grant-ed him.

AMUSEMENTS.

Musical.

ENGLISH OPERA AT BRYANT'S.

The season of English opera at Bryant's Opera-house continues prosperously. Last evening "Fra Diavolo" was performed in presence of an audience quite numerous and exceedingly attentive. Mr. Bowler sang Fra Diavolo, Mr. Seguin Lord Allcash, Miss Howson Zerlina, and Mrs. Seguin Lady Allcash. Beppo and Giacomo were represented by Messrs. Drayton and Bartleman. At the matinée, today, "The Bohemian Girl" is to be given.

Miscellaneous.

A report of the death of Mr. John McCullough, of San Francisco, was current in this City yesterday. It is without foundation. Mr. McCullough has been ill, but not in danger, and he is now recovering.

A Card from the Deputy Chamberlain.

Office of the City Chamberlain,
New-York County Court-House,
New-York, Friday, June 7, 1872.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

In the account of the City and County claims paid in 1868, published in the Times of Tuesday, and copied in the Tribune of the next day, it is stated, in connection with the payments made to E. Jones and Wm. C. Rogers, that $150,000 of the amount paid them was deposited to the credit of P. B. Sweeny, Chamberlain. This alleged deposit to Mr. Sweeny in his then official capacity has been treated by the Times as a personal payment to his private account. It is proper that this office should correct this error. On the face of the transaction, the conclusion of the Times is not justified. A warrant indorsed to the order of the Chamberlain could only be applied to City account. That is the legal way in which warrants or checks are paid into the City Treasury.

I have, however, caused a special examination to be made in this case, and have traced the original warrant claimed to have been deposited to Mr. Sweeny's account as such Chamberlain. It appears that warrant No. 1,163 was issued on the 7th of October, 1868, to E. Jones & Co. for the sum named, and was indorsed on the back: "Pay P. B. Sweeny, Chamberlain, or order. E. Jones & Co." This was done to purchase bonds for the amount, divided into sums of $50,000, and four of $25,000 each. It is apparent from the books that Mr. Sweeny had only an official connection with the transaction. Yours, respectfully,

W. B. PALMER,
Deputy Chamberlain.

The Grave of Anson Burlingame.

A chaste and neatly-chiseled sarcophagus has been placed upon the lot in Mount Auburn Cemetery, Cambridge, Mass., where lies buried the body of Anson Burlingame. It consists of a massive granite plinth, succeeded by a marble base, which bears a second base neatly molded and beaded; the latter is surmounted with a die deeply paneled for inscriptions and ornaments. The front panel is of Gothic shape. The cap which succeeds is embellished with sprays of olive foliage and fruit, and also with a beautiful cluster of palm-leaves. Front inscription, in old English letters, "Anson Burlingame." Rear, "Born Nov. 14, 1820. Died Feb. 23, 1870."

THE INDIAN CHIEFS.

Their Reception at the Cooper Institute.

Speeches by Red Cloud, Red Dog, Messrs. Tatham, Cooper, Fisher and Others—A Crowded House—Peace.

The meeting at the Cooper Institute last evening to hear the Indian Chiefs was a large one, and was a trifle boyish and undignified in the exuberance of its spirits. At 8 o'clock punctually, Mr. COOPER came forward and said: "We have met, my friends, to welcome these Indians, as they have come to declare their intention of living in peace with our frontier settlements. It will not be injudicious to remind you that the time is not so far distant when these Indians occupied the whole country, and my own mother saw with her own eyes the chevaux de frise which was erected to keep them off. I will not detain you any longer, as these Indians wish to tell you their own sentiments in their own way."

Mr. TATHAM addressed RED CLOUD through the interpreter in these terms: "We are glad to welcome you again among us. You have faithfully kept the promise of peace which you made in this room two years ago. We shall be glad to hear what you have to tell us now."

After this had been translated to him, RED CLOUD advanced to the platform with an interpreter, and Mr. HEPWORTH, who having a very strong voice, repeated aloud the words of the interpreter. He said:

I am very glad to come and visit my friends, and very glad to see them all. God has given to me the daytime to work in, and I propose to work while it is day. God tells me to do all my work in the daytime, and when the night comes it will be time for me to return home. When He made the red man, He gave him this country to live in; when He made the white man, He gave him a country across the water. All my forefathers have lived in this country. Here I spent my boyhood; here I saw my friends and here I hope to live and die. My forefathers told me that the white men were made of the same clay as the red men, and I wish to live in brotherhood with every pale face on the broad continent, and to treat them as my brothers. I came to the Great Father and said to him, "Protect me in my own country, so that I may build school-houses, wigwams, and bring up my people as the white people are brought up." When I come here I always come to the Great Father first and next to New-York, because it is a great place, filled with lodges like the grass of the plains; and I want them to help me, who am poor and helpless. When I went to the Great Father before I returned to my people on the Platte I met with distrust, but now, when I came here, I left confidence behind me, because the Great Father has been good to us and always kept his promises, so my people believe in him. It takes more than three days to do any good. I have been to the Great Father to get encouragement, and I shall return to teach my people to imitate the whites. You can see how much I trust the whites, for I am here with my chiefs, who are all as glad to see you as I am. I have perfect confidence in the agent whom the Great Father has sent to us. He is honest. He is brave. He is wise; and I and my people will listen to his counsels, and obey them. I wish to be on friendly terms with the whites whom I see here. I speak not only for the Ogalalas, who are my own people, but for all the tribes of the Sioux nation. I can protect the country which the Great Father has given me with my own men, and I wish he would take his soldiers away. RED CLOUD then sat down.

RED DOG then came forward in the same manner and said: You all know me. I was here two years ago, and you saw me and I saw you. When I went back, I told my people what I had seen, and of the audience that I had addressed in this place. My people were surprised at what I told them, and these chiefs wanted to come and see for themselves. The white people are like the waves of the river, they are very strong, they can protect themselves. I wanted when I got back, to make my people like the whites. I chose a reservation, but it was not good, so I have come to ask the Great Father to get another reservation which will be better. This is why these chiefs are here, they wish to do what is right, and to have their rights respected. And I hope the Great Father will enable me to bring up my children as yours are brought up, and this is all I have to say.

Mr. TATHAM came forward and made some remarks pending the return of Prof. MARTIN, who was to have made an address, but who was temporarily absent. He spoke of the extreme fidelity of the red Indians under every circumstance, and declared that these chiefs who spoke peace, meant peace, and nothing but peace; and that any insinuation that they spoke with forked tongues, or had war in their hearts, was false and baseless. [Applause.]

Prof. MARTIN was then introduced and read a long address, being the report of the United States Indian Commission, in which it was shown that the policy of honesty and humanity inaugurated by Gen. GRANT had been most successful in the North along the whole line of the frontier. The troubles in the South had been due entirely to the brutal execution of six Apache chiefs and the massacre of men, women and children at Camp Grant, near Tucson. He characterized this as a causeless, cruel and outrageous wrong, which had cost the country hundreds of lives and millions of treasure. The latest telegrams from Gen. HOWARD have reported that he has succeeded in inducing the greater part of the Apaches to come to terms of peace, and even to promise that they would take care that the outlaws of their tribe should be given up to justice if they did any wrong. One of the most fertile causes of Indian trouble was the increasing greed with which the lands of the Indians were pursued by speculators. There was not an inch of fertile prairie upon which private rapacity or corporative avarice had not fixed eyes of desire. The Indian had no one to defend the poor remnant of his great inheritance. He was represented by no Press, by no member of Congress, by no orators and no lawyers. He was at the mercy of the white man. For these reasons, a resort to war was the very last thing that should be thought of, and should only be sought when no other means were left untried.

Dr. FISHER, of the Indian Commission, was introduced and said that on all questions it was necessary that the truth and the whole truth should be told. On the frontiers were bad white men, who were committing depredations on the red men, and there were bad red men who were committing depredations on the white men. But, upon the average, the red men were more peaceable than the whites, because they felt their dependence and were averse to war. It was to be understood that there were among the Indians young men who broke away from the authorities in the tribe, and who were outlaws. They were what would be called in New-York roughs and rowdies, and were of the same class as the men who committed burglaries and murders here. It would be a blessing both to the Indians and the whites if these outlaws could be shot down, for they were nothing but prairie pirates, whom the chiefs could not control. It would also be a great blessing if similar classes in New-York could be shot down too. [Applause.]

From the Springfield Republican, June 7.

Now that his renomination is an accomplished fact, Gen. GRANT is doubtless scanning the political heavens with increased interest, and he finds them undeniably propitious to his candidacy. To begin with, it has the prestige of regularity. His friends claim to be the only othodox Republicans in the country, and they are in possession of the party premises and furniture. This counts for a good deal more than some persons seem to think. "That strange power, a name," is still potent, even with the most intelligent of us. Old Republicans shrink back from the thought of leaving the party for which they have labored and of which they have been so proud. Gen. GRANT has also the prestige of great military services. The passions excited by the war are subsiding, but they are still capable of being utilized for the purposes of his canvass. Judging from present appearances, the great bulk of the negro vote will be thrown for him. He can count upon the active support of the huge railroad corporations and the other monopolies—an element which is playing a more important part in our politics at present than many suspect. Finally, he has on his side that natural and powerful instinct in the nature of the capitalist and the tradesman which deprecates change and clings to the existing status. Money-bags are always and everywhere conservative. When you have proved to the busy wealth-seekers that the President has shown an indecent fondness for gifts, that he has appointed rascally or incapable kinsmen to office, that he has cracked, if not broken, the laws, what have you accomplished by your demonstration? They will reply to you: "Gen. GRANT is a safe man. The country has prospered, and its credit improved under his Administration. We know him, and know that he can be trusted not to smash things. It would be folly in us to take the risks of a change. Let well enough alone." This laissez faire party is one of the oldest in the world, and it always has full ranks. It stood for twenty years between LOUIS NAPOLEON and his enemies, the French Republicans. The vis inertiæ plays at least as large a rôle in politics as in physics. It is a force which no politician who understands his business, will underrate. Supplemented by the other forces we have mentioned, it may very well put Gen. GRANT at the head of the poll, next November.

It is true that there are powerful forces at work against his candidacy. The personal aversion which he has inspired in some of our oldest and strongest Republicans; the dissatisfaction—often shading into disgust—with many of his official performances; the instinct of progress, demanding something higher and better in administration than he has given us; the instinct of national unity, demanding the final burial of war issues and disuse of war methods—all these are against him. If the opposition was united and manageable they would defeat him. If Mr. ADAMS had been nominated at Cincinnati, the outlook, to-day, would have been very different. A larger or smaller portion of the Irish vote would have gone over to GRANT. Some few native-born Democrats of the Chicago Times school might have kept the Irishmen company. But the loss would have been insignificant by the side of the gain. Such a candidacy would have appealed to the best instincts and the most critical judgment of our people, Democrats and Republicans alike. Here at the North it would have grown stronger and more irresistible with every month of the canvass, while if it had failed to excite so much personal enthusiasm at the South, it would have commanded in the end a no less hearty support.

Mr. GREELEY has been a very pronounced and aggressive man all his life, as well as a very busy one. He has had a mind of his own on every subject, and has uttered it with a blunt directness which has made him a power in our politics. But the strength of the editor is the weakness of the candidate. The free-traders par excellence, and a wing of the democracy, profess themselves unable to forget or forgive. It is probable, therefore, that midsummer will see three tickets in the field—and tickets, too, which will have come to stay. Of course, that spectacle will mean the re-election of Gen. GRANT. It cannot well mean anything else, unless we are to have political miracles of some sort worked in the meanwhile. If, however, the project of a third nomination shall for any reason be abandoned, we shall see what we shall see. In that event, a fraction of the embryo third party would doubtless go over to GRANT, another fraction would find GREELEY the less of the two evils, while another fraction still would simply stay away from the polls. Upon the relative size of these fractions might possibly depend the rsult of the canvass.

At present, the omens are certainly on the side of Philadelphia. But the omens are not always to be implicitly trusted. If Baltimore swings its hat for GREELEY, if no bolt follows, if CHAS. SUMNER and CARL SCHURZ engage heartily in the canvass, if this, that or the other thing happens, why, then, the situation may be bravely altered. "Call me not olive till you see me gathered!" The fruit which now seems ripening so prosperously for Gen. GRANT's plucking, may turn out but sour victual, after all. So long as it is on the bough it is in jeopardy.

From Mr. Samuel Bowles' Letter, June 6.

The Convention greatly encourages the Republican leaders. It was better every way—larger, heartier, and exhibited the party organization in stronger condition than they feared would be the case. Quite a number of prominent men appeared in it who have been thought doubtful. Some of them would not have been here had Mr. ADAMS been nominated at Cincinnati. It is felt that the Greeley movement has made but a small indentation on the party; it is certain that it has not broken or weakened its organization. What it will take of its voters is perhaps another question, and cannot so easily be told now, but the men here mean business. They have started the campaign strongly; they purpose to follow it up sharply and vigorously—they will have behind GRANT and WILSON the strongest combination of political interests that were ever rallied to the support of a Presidential ticket. The great corporations of the country will be on its side. The power of an Administration more personal and more bold in its power than any that ever existed in the country will be exercised in its behalf. Able, shrewd and even unscrupulous leaders will direct the campaign for it. Money will be abundant. The strongest speakers of the party will be put upon the stump for it at once, and Gen. WILSON will join them and keep the field till election. If the Administration at Washington is not to be perpetuated in the same hands and with the same spirit, there must be a closer combination of the opposition than is now promised, a wider popular demonstration of the country's dissatisfaction with the situation and the prospect than are now apparent.

Of course, every such great National Convention closes with the confidence of victory. That which nominated FREMONT here, in 1856, did. Even that which nominated GREELEY a month ago at Cincinnati separated with the halo of success over its head. But though conventions do not elect Presidents, and though June is not November, this body has great good reason now in the faith that is in it.

OUT-DOOR SPORTS.

Trotting at Suffolk Park, Philadelphia—Boating on the Schuylkill.

PHILADELPHIA, Penn., June 7.—A race between Goldsmith Maid and Lucy came off this afternoon at Suffolk Park and was witnessed by thousands of persons, among whom were Judge SETTLE, President of the National Republican Convention, and Gen. LEE, of North Carolina. Rain fell during the last two heats. The time made by the Maid was 2:22¾, 2:22¼, 2:22½. Jay Gould was trotted out between the heats and made 2:23½.

This afternoon a number of sporting men assembled upon the Schuylkill, at Fairmount Park, to witness a boat-race between the celebrated oarsmen, WILLIAM SCHARFF, of Pittsburg, Penn., and THOMAS C. BUTLER, of Boston, Mass. The race was for $500 a side. The boats started from a point below Reading Railroad Bridge, the course being five miles. BUTLER, at starting, was in advance; but the Pittsburg man gradually gained ground, and at the stake-boat was some distance ahead. In the homestretch he gradually widened the gap, and reached the starting-point twelve lengths ahead of his opponent, winning easily. PHILIP J. HEAFLICKER, of the Malta Boat Club, acted as referee. Considerable money changed hands on the result. Few Philadelphians were present, as the contest was not generally known. The time made by SCHAEFF was 32:27, which is the fastest time ever made in this country.

Base-Ball Notes.

The game arranged to take place on the Union Ground yesterday between the Mutuals and Baltimores was postponed to Wednesday next, June 12, in consequence of the rain. To-day, Mutual vs. Athletic at Philadelphia, and Baltimore vs. Boston at Boston.

THE BOSTON JUBILEE.

Arrival of a French Band—Arrangements for the Press.

BOSTON, June 7.—The French Garde Republicaine Band had a grand reception this morning. They were met at the depot by several members of the Executive Jubilee Committee, and, under the escort of Montgomery Guards and the English High-school Regiment of boys, headed by GILMORE's full band, marched through many of the principal streets. Immense crowds gathered on the sidewalks and at the windows and welcomed the visitors with exceeding cordiality and enthusiasm. The Committee on Reception of the Press of the Jubilee have issued a circular, in which they state that the tickets will will be ready for delivery at the Press headquarters, in the Coliseum Building, on Saturday, June 15, and on the following days. The quarters specially devoted to the Press will be a room 115 long by 50 wide, amply furnished with all necessary writing conveniences, and through the courtesy of Postmaster BURT, and the Western Union Telegraph Company, will have every postal and telegraph facility. Communications to the representatives of the Press, addressed to "the Coliseum, Boston," will be delivered hourly during the day, and the same dispatch given to communications mailed from there. The room will be under the general superintendence of Mr. S. R. NILES. The Mayor and the Committee of Arrangements of the City Council of Boston will receive the represen tatives of the Press in Faneuil Hall, at 11 o'clock, Monday the 17th inst.

THE RECENT STORM.

Additions to the List of Disasters on the New-England Coast.

BOSTON, June 7.—Additional accounts continue to be received of shipwrecks by the recent storm.

The schooner Wm. C. Endicott, of Gloucester, Capt. REED, arrived at this port today. She had in tow the schooner Dexter, of Surry, Me., which vessel was found dismasted and abandoned thirty-five miles from Boston Light. The vessel was full of water, with her house and boat gone. She had a cargo of lumber. The crew were probably taken off by some passing vessel. Capt. REED also reports that on Wednesday he fell in with a lumber-laden schooner, with loss of mainmast. The crew were evidently in great peril, as five men were seen lashed to the rigging. The sea was too high to send a boat to their aid, and Capt. REED lay by her fourteen hours for the purpose of taking them off, but the gale continuing it was found impossible. He judged from the position of the vessel when last seen that she would be driven ashore at Marshfield. He could not see her name, but the port of hail upon her stern was Yarmouth, Me.

The schooner Georgia, Capt. ALLEY, bound from Ellsworth, Me., with a cargo of lumber, for Chelsea, went ashore on Plumb Island in the gale of the 5th. The crew were saved. The vessel lies in an easy position, but the schooner will prove a total loss. The Georgia hailed from Ellsworth, and was owned by the Captain and his father. She was about eighteen years old, and was not insured.

The Treasure on the Sunken Spanish Frigate Leocadia.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 7.—The Wrecking Company have received advices from the expedition sent to the coast of Ecuador to raise the treasure sunk on the Spanish frigate Leocadia. They found the treasure, and have commenced raising it, with a prospect of complete success.

FORTY-SECOND CONGRESS.

SECOND SESSION.

SENATE....WASHINGTON, Friday, June 7.

The Vice-President appointed Messrs. STEWART and STOCKTON members of the Board of Visitors to West Point, in place of Messrs. WILSON and BLAIR declined.

COLLECTION OF CUSTOMS.

Mr. TRUMBULL moved that the Judiciary Committee be discharged from the further consideration of the House bill to regulate the seizure and examination of invoices, books and papers, in Custom-house cases, and that the bill be placed on the calendar.

After discussion, Mr. EDMUNDS moved to lay Mr. TRUMBULL's motion on the table. Lost by yeas 20, nays 33.

Mr. BUCKINGHAM expressed the hope that Mr. TRUMBULL's motion would prevail, in order that the bill, which was important to the proper collection of the public revenue, might go on the calendar and have some chance to be passed before final adjournment.

Mr. EDMUNDS said the bill ought to be perfected before being placed before the Senate for action, and explained at some length the objects sought to be attained in the administration of the Customs service by the provisions of the bill. He thought it would be discourteous to the Committee to take it out of their hands at the present time.

The morning hour expired, and the subject went over.

CIVIL APPROPRIATIONS.

The Sundry Civil Appropriation bill was then taken up. The motion of the Committee to strike out the sixth section, allowing pay to mail contractors in the rebel States prior to May 31, 1861, was carried by a vote of 28 to 27.

The amendment of the Committee to allow a credit to the Collector of the port of Chicago in the settlement of his accounts such sums in coin and currency as may have been lost during the fire in that city, was agreed to. The amendment of the Committee appropriating $251,055 97 to restore to the Creek orphans of 1832 certain funds to which they are entitled under the treaty with the Creek Nation of March 24, 1832, was discussed at length, and rejected.

VETO.

A message was received from the President, returning without his approval the bill for the relief of THOMAS B. WALLACE, and giving his reasons therefor, which was read and referred to the Committee on Claims.

The veto message is as follows:

To the Senate of the United States:

I have the honor to return herewith the Senate bill, No. 569, entitled an act for the relief of THOMAS B. WALLACE, of Lexington, in the State of Missouri, without my signature. This claim, for which $11,250 are appropriated by this bill is of the same nature and character as the claim of Dr. J. MILTON BEST, which was returned to the Senate on the 1st inst., without my signature. The same reasons which prompted the return of that bill for reconsideration, apply to this case, which also is a claim for compensation on account of the ravages of the war, and comes under the same general principle of both international and municipal law; that all property is held subject not only to be taken by the Government for public use, in which case, under the Constitution of the United States, the owner is entitled to part compensation, but also subject to be temporarily occupied, or even actually destroyed in times of great public danger and when the public safety demands it; and in the latter case Governments do not admit a legal obligation on their part to compensate the owner. The temporary occupation of, injuries to, and destruction of property caused by actual and necessary military operations, are generally conceded to all within the last mentioned principle, and if a Government makes compensation under such circumstances, it is a matter of bounty rather than of strict legal right. If it be deemed proper to make compensation for such losses, I renew my recommendation that provision be made by general legislation for all similar cases.

U. S. GRANT.

EXECUTIVE MANSION, June 7, 1872.

CIVIL APPROPRIATIONS RESUMED.

Mr. COLE moved an amendment authorizing the Secretary of War to extend the Signal Service to take observations for the benefit of agriculture. Agreed to.

The Committee amendment providing that the Secretary of the Navy pay the unliquidated debt now due the Corliss Steam-engine Company for steam machinery furnished under contract with the Navy Department, amounting to $257,688, was discussed with reference to its admissibility as an amendment to the bill under consideration, and was ruled out.

Mr. MORRILL, of Vermont, moved an amendment modifying the provisions of the act of July 3, 1870, requiring all unexpended balances of appropriations for public buildings to be covered into the Treasury at the end of the year for which they were appropriated, so as to allow such balances to be expended during the year following the period of the limit mentioned in the law.

Pending action on the amendment the Senate, at 4.45 P. M., on the motion of Mr. STOCKTON, proceeded to the consideration of Executive business, at the close of which a recess was taken until 7½ P. M.

EVENING SESSION.

Mr. WILSON, from the Military Committee, reported the House bill relative to retired officers of the army, and repealing the thirty-second section of the act of July 20, 1866. Passed.

CIVIL APPROPRIATIONS.

The Sundry Civil Appropriation bill was taken up, the question being upon the adoption of the amendments offered by Mr. MORRILL, of Vermont, to repeal so much of the act of July 3, 1870, as prohibits the use of the unexpended balances of the appropriations for public buildings beyond the year for which they were appropriated.

Mr. MORRILL submitted a modification removing the restriction from all the public buildings now in course of construction, so far as relates to the present unexpended balance. Agreed to.

Amendments appropriating an additional sum of $3,000 for the decoration of the Capitol with works of art; $9,000 for the publication of the volumes of Wilkes' Exploring Expedition; $18,000 for the erection of a light-house at Green Bay, Wis.; $10,000 for a light-house at the entrance to White River, Michigan; and $20,000 for a light-house at Charlotte Harbor, on the west coast of Florida, were agreed to.

Mr. KELLOGG offered as an amendment substantially the Supplemental Enforcement act, already passed by the Senate this session, removing the restriction of the provisions of the original Enforcement act to places having 20,000 population and upward and extending them to all voting precincts.

Mr. CASSERLY raised the point of order that this amendment was not in order, under the rule that no amendment to an Appropriation bill shall be received making legislative provision other than such as directly relates to an appropriation contained in the bill.

The Chair (Mr. ANTHONY) overruled the point of order.

Mr. THURMAN appealed from the decision of the Chair, and said that if an amendment like this, extending the provisions of the Enforcement act all over the country, could be entertained on this bill, then the rule meant nothing at all.

Mr. CASSERLY said the reception of this amendment was a gross violation of both the spirit and the letter of the rule.

Mr. TRUMBULL read the rule and said nothing could be clearer than that under it this amendment was out of order.

Mr. CONKLING argued that it was in order.

The vote was taken on the appeal, and the decision of the Chair was sustained—yeas 28, nays 22.

Mr. THURMAN then moved to indefinitely postpone the bill, and said that under the decision to which the Senator had now come every statute passed since the foundation of the Government, on whatever subject referred to in this bill, was open to amendment or repeal, and all under the restrictive five-minutes rule. He would a thousand times sooner have the previous question of the House of Representatives. Senators may smile, and think this is a very smart trick, but it is a proposal to stifle free speech in a way that was never before known in this world. The whole body of the statute laws of the land are placed at the mercy of a numerical majority, without allowing any debate. Better adopt the rule of LOUIS NAPOLEON at once, and establish a military despotism. Better place the country at once under the rule of ULYSSES the Silent, for this is a step in that direction. If this arbitrary rule is to prevail, it is the end of all freedom of debate in the American Senate. It is the death knell of liberty in this country, if free speech is necessary to liberty. He appealed to the majority rather to extend the session than to overthrow the last refuge of the minority.

Mr. SUMNER said he thanked Mr. THURMAN for what he had said. He (SUMNER) agreed with him that under this ruling even the Civil Rights bill could be moved as an amendment. [Laughter.] That was a bill well known in this Chamber. [Laughter.] He now moved it pure and simple. [Laughter.]

Mr. BLAIR moved to adjourn. Lost—nays 30, yeas 16.

Mr. CASSERLY regarded Mr. KELLOGG as the mere organ of others in this matter. The action of the majority here falling in as regularly as at the tap of the drum was sufficient to show that the proceeding was all concerted in advance.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

Mr. BUTLER, of Massachusetts, introduced a bill fixing the time of the operation of the Tariff Free List July 1, instead of August. Referred to the Committee on Ways and Means.

REFUNDING DUTIES.

Mr. DAWES, from the Committee on the Ways and Means, reported a bill providing that, when it shall be shown to the satisfaction of the Secretary of the Treasury, that parties are entitled to a refund of duty paid on goods in public stores or bonded warehouse the 1st of August, 1872, under the provisions of the recently-passed Tariff act, it shall be the duty of the Secretary to draw a warrant for the amount. Passed

PRINTING THE TARIFF AND POSTAL CODE.

On motion of Mr. BEATTY, 10,000 copies of the Tariff act were ordered to be printed for the use of members of the House. The same number of copies of the new Postal code were also ordered to be printed.

PASSED OVER A VETO.

The House took up the message of the President vetoing the bill granting a pension to MARY ANN MONTGOMERY, the Senate having reconsidered and passed the bill, the President's objections to the contrary notwithstanding; and now the House, after a brief debate, passed the bill by the required constitutional majority of two-thirds. Yeas 101, nays 44.

Mr. BROOKS, of New-York, asked leave to introduce a bill providing that all acts and parts of acts requiring duties to be assessed upon packages, commissions, brokerage, cost of transportation, shipment and trans-shipment, and other like costs and incidental charges, incurred in packing and shipping merchandise, are hereby repealed, and all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this section are hereby repealed.

Mr. RANDALL objected.

THE RAWLINS MONUMENT.

The Speaker laid before the House a message from the President calling the attention of Congress to the act approved July 14, 1870, directing the Secretary of War to place at the disposal of the President certain bronze cannon, for the erection of an equestrian statue of Gen. J. A. RAWLINS, &c. The President says that no artist is named or parties designated to whom the ordnance is to be delivered. In order to remove ambiguity, he desires Congress to signify what action shall be taken as to the artist, and fix the amount of money to be expended; and further, that a board of officers shall be named to locate the monument.

THE RIVER AND HARBOR BILL.

The Senate amendments to the River and Harbor bill were read.

The House non-concurred in numerous amendments, including that confining the appropriations to the next fiscal year, and asked for a committee of conference. Referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

THE FORTIFICATION.

The House non-concurred in the Senate amendment to the Fortification bill, and asked a Committee of Conference.

RELEASING LAND TO A RAILROAD.

The House concurred in the Senate amendment to the bill authorizing the Secretary of War to release twenty-five acres of land to the Plattsburg and Canada Railroad.

OBSTRUCTING JUSTICE.

The House took up, and the Clerk read, the Senate substitute for the bill to prevent and punish obstructions of justice in Courts of the United States. It provides for the fine and imprisonment, or both, of persons who may, by threats, or force, or by threatening communications, endeavor to influence grand or petit jurors. The bill was refered to the Committee on the Judiciary.

CIVIL RIGHTS.

The House took up the Senate bill to declare and enforce the civil rights of citizens of the United States.

Mr. POLAND offered an amendment providing that no penalty should exceed $1,000, the minimum to be at the discretion of the Court.

Mr. BROOKS, of New-York, said the words "civil rights" should be changed to social rights.

Mr. POLAND replied there was nothing about social rights in the bill.

Mr. BROOKS said the colored men of the country now had every civil right that he had, or any other man.

Mr. POLAND—But there is no remedy for a violation in some States.

Mr. BROOKS—There is, under the common law, a remedy everywhere.

Mr. POLAND—But there is no penalty.

Mr. BROOKS—The States have sovereign power to enforce any penalties they please, and social rights, such as the bill demands, if the concern of anybody, are the concern of the States, not of the Federal Government.

Mr. POLAND moved to pass the bill, under a suspension of the rules, with his amendment.

The House voted and the result was 86 against 73; so the question was decided in the negative, there not being the required two-thirds.

Mr. POLAND then modified his amendment, changing the proposed penalty from $1,000 to $100, and again moved a suspension of the rules and the passage of the bill.

The vote was 83 against 73. The question was therefore decided in the negative, not being two-thirds. The bill now lies on the Speaker's table.

The House took up the Senate Kuklux bill, proposing to extend the suspension of the privileges of the writ of habeas corpus until the end of the next regular session of Congress. The vote on the suspension of the rules was as follows:

YEAS.—Messrs. Beatty, Buckley, Buffington, Butler of Tennessee, Coburn, Conger, Crocker, Dawes, Duell, Dunnell, Foster of Ohio, Hosmor, Harris of Mississippi, Havens, Hawley, Hazelton of New-Jersey, Hill, Hoar, Houghton, Lamport, McGrew, McJunkin, Mercur, Merriam, Monroe, Leonard, Myers, Orr, Packard, Packer, Palmer, Pendleton, Perce, Perry of Ohio, Poland, Prindle, Rainey, Ellis H. Roberts, Sawyer, Sessions, Shanks, Shellabarger, H. Boardman Smith of New-York, John A. Smith of Ohio, Sprague, Starkweather, Stevenson, Townsend, Turner, Twichell, Tyner, Wakeman, Walden, Williams of Indiana, Wilson of Indiana, Wilson of Ohio, Waldron.—56.

NAYS—Messrs. POLITICAL DISABILITIES.

The House passed the Senate bill to relieve CHARLES J. FAULKNER, of West Virginia from political disabilities.

OATHS IN PASSING ENTRIES.

Mr. ELLIS H. ROBERTS asked leave to report from the Committee of Ways and Means, a bill to abolish oaths and affirmations in Custom House entries and to substitute declarations in lieu thereof. False declarations with intentions to defraud the revenue are to be considered as high misdemeanors, and persons violating the act shall, on conviction, be punished by a fine of $1,000 or two years imprisonment, or both, at the discretion of the Court. The declarations provided for are to be considered equivalent to oaths. Objection was made to reporting the bill. The House at 4 o'clock P. M. took a recess till 8 o'clock.

EVENING SESSION.

The House resumed the consideration of the business on the Speaker's table.

The Senate bill to reimburse United States Marshals for taking the Ninth census in excess of compensation, was passed.

A large number of private bills were also taken from the Speaker's table. Some of them passed and the remainder were referred to Committees. This disposed of all the business on the Speaker's table.

The House then, at 9½, adjourned.

THE SPY:
A TALE OF THE NEUTRAL GROUND

By JAMES FENIMORE COOPER. Being the first volume of a new library edition of Cooper's Novels Well printed and bound in brown cloth, gilt side and back. Price $1 25 per volume.

"The enduring monuments of Fenimore Cooper are his works. So truly patriotic and American throughout, they should find a place in every American's library."—Daniel Webster.

II.

A SEVEN MONTHS' RUN,
UP, AND DOWN, AND AROUND THE WORLD.

By JAMES BROOKS. 1 vol., 12mo. Cloth, $1 75.

"It is a very lively, brightly-written work. It glances at the places seen and the persons encountered in a free, brisk manner, that is often more effective than labored and elaborate description—just as an artist's free sketch has more breadth and genuine revelation of the scene than the overworked canvas. Mr. Brooks touches every picture with a sort of high light, that catches the spirit of the scene in a phrase, and these phrases are usually the happy inspiration of the moment, dotted down in pencil on bits of paper, and in this form transmitted to the Express for publication, from the columns of which they are transferred to the book without change. It is a very readable volume."

III.

THREE CENTURIES OF MODERN HISTORY.

By CHARLES DRAKE YONGE, Professor of Modern History in Queen's College, Belfast. 1 vol., 12mo, cloth. Price $2.

"The object with which the present work has been undertaken is to give the youthful student some idea of the general history of Continental Europe in what may be called modern times. It is not designed to present a complete history of any one country, nor even of any one period in the history of any country. It may be compared to a skeleton chart of Europe, on which the boundaries of the different countries, the courses of a few great rivers, and the situation of some of the chief cities, are marked out sufficiently to guide the student in filling up the outline; but which, for a more precise knowledge of any separate country, leaves him to consult maps more elaborately filled up."

IV.

GANOT'S NATURAL HISTORY,
For general readers and young persons.

Translated, with the author's sanction, by Dr. E. ATKINSON. 1 vol., 12mo, with Frontispiece and 404 wood-cuts. Price $3.

"The present work has its origin in an attempt to comply with a suggestion which has frequently been made to me, that I should prepare an abridged edition of my translation of Ganot's 'Eléments de Physique,' which could be used for purposes of more elementary instruction than that work, and in which the use of mathematical formulæ would be dispensed with."—Extract from Preface.

REAL ESTATE TRANSACTIONS.

At the Exchange yesterday, (Friday, June 7,) JOSEPH MCGUIRE, by order of the Supreme Court, in foreclosure, under the direction of JAMES H. COLEMAN, Esq., referee, disposed of the block front of eight lots on the east side of Ninth-avenue, between One Hundred and Sixteenth and One Hundred and Seventeenth streets, for $28,500 in the aggregate. The property was sold in two parcels, under two separate decrees, and the four lots on the northeast corner of the streets named brought $15,000, while the four lots adjoining, on the south-east corner, brought $13,500. LEONARD SCOTT bought the first plot and GEO. H. PECK the second. The legal sale of a house and lot on Thirty-fourth-street, near Tenth-avenue, under the direction of the same referee, Mr. MCGUIRE, adjourned until July 12, and the property No. 18 Walker-street, also noticed for sale by the same auctioneer, was not offered, the legal proceedings regarding the title to the same having been stopped. JAMES M. MILLER, also under a Supreme Court foreclosure order, ROBERT P. HOPE, Esq., referee, sold a four-story brown-stone house and lot, situate on the south side of Sixty-third-street, 125 feet west of Ninth-avenue, for $10,650, over and above a mortgage of $6,000, with interest from Nov. 1, 1871, thus making the total price realized about $16,875. The purchaser was FLORIAN ROHE. No further business was transacted.

The suburban auction held at Whitestone, Long Island, on Thursday, June 6, by JERE. JOHNSON, Jr., resulted most successfully, as will be seen from the detailed report annexed. The property adjoins the well-known Higgins Nurseries, and all the lots offered—314 in number—were sold for $49,076 in the total, the average being $157 per lot. The buyers were principally from this City, although a number of lots were bought by parties residing at Whitestone and in the vicinity. The attendance at the sale was large, bidding active, and the interest in the proceedings fully maintained to the close of the sale. The auction sale at Oakland, N. J., A. D. MELLICK, Jr., & BRO., auctioneers, noticed also for Thursday, did not take place, but was postponed to a day to be hereafter announced. The sale of lots at Jersey City, N. J., belonging to the De Motte estate, advertised for Tuesday last by LEWIS E. WOOD, but postponed by reason of the storm, will take place, we understand, on Monday of next week. Details regarding this auction, as well as all others to occur during next week, will, as usual, be contained in our list published on Monday.

Today, at the Exchange, no public sales will be consummated, but at White Plains, Westchester County, at the Court-house in that town, at 12 M., JAMES M. MILLER, by order of the Supreme Court, under the direction of CHARLES HARRIS PHELPS, Esq., referee, will offer at auction twenty-nine plots of land, (175 acres in all,) known as the Delancy Farm, adjoining the town of White Plains, located between the White Plains road and Central-avenue, adjoining and near the lands of CHARLES BUTLER, Esq., MCCABE and QUIMBY. The Harlem Railroad and Bronx River run the whole length of the property on the west side, and the Hart's Corner Depot is located on the lower part. The proposed Croton and Port Morris Railroad runs the whole length of the property on the east side. The Bronx River affords a good water-power, stone dams and race-ways being already constructed, giving a fall of 15½ feet, affording a rare opportunity for manufacturing purposes. There are several dwelling-houses and barns on the property, one dwelling with ten rooms, being within 100 yards of Hart's Corner Depot. The property is laid out in plots of from one-half to eleven acres each, and offers some of the most desirable villa sites in Westchester County, as the location is perfectly healthy, and within one mile of the public buildings at White Plains. Trains leave the Grand Central Depot, Forty-second-street, at 7:25, 8:25, 9½ and 10:40. Map and particulars at the office of the auctioneer, No. 28 Pine-street. At another legal sale, under the direction of the same referee, at the same time and place, Mr. MILLER will also offer at auction a plot of land, 150 by 105, situate on the east side of Eleventh-avenue, Mount Vernon, Westchester County, 250 feet south of Second-street. In addition to the above, at Darien, Conn., at 1 P. M., on the grounds, JERE. JOHNSON, Jr., will offer for sale a number of desirable lots, forming a portion of the property owned by Mr. MELVILLE E. MEAD.

At private sale, G. LISPINASSE, No. 112 Broadway, reports having sold two lots on the north side of One Hundred and Sixteenth-street, 250 feet west of Fifth-avenue, for $10,500.

Midland Pacific

RAILWAY

FIRST MORTGAGE

7 Per Cent. Gold Bonds.

These bonds are issued at the rate of $18,333 per mile upon COMPLETED ROAD from NEBRASKA CITY, on the Missouri River, to LINCOLN, the CAPITAL of NEBRASKA. The distance between these points is about sixty miles, and this division of the Road is in successful operation and earning net more than all the interest on its Bonds. It penetrates an EXCEEDINGLY RICH AGRICULTURAL region, with UNLIMITED CAPABILITIES for production, and is much needed for removal of abundant crops to market. This need has been so much felt that LOCAL SUBSCRIPTIONS TO THE AMOUNT OF $8,000 PER MILE HAVE BEEN MADE to facilitate the extension of the road from Lincoln westward to the Platte River, which is in process of construction. The MIDLAND PACIFIC forms part of a direct EAST AND WEST TRUNK ROUTE, now being rapidly built from Urbana, on the INDIANAPOLIS, BLOOMINGTON AND WESTERN RAILWAY, in Illinois, through A VERY RICH AGRICULTURAL DISTRICT DENSELY POPULATED for the greater part of the way, to Grand Island, on the Platte River, where junction is made with the Union Pacific Railroad. This new line, 610 miles long, is formed of three links, of which more than 200 MILES ARE COMPLETED, a force of over 2,000 men is engaged in vigorous prosecution of the work, and THE ENTIRE LINE IS TO BE FULLY COMPLETED IN 1873.

The roads composing this trunk line are JUDICIOUSLY LOCATED AND ARE UNDER THE DIRECTION OF SOME OF THE ABLEST AND MOST SUCCESSFUL RAILWAY MANAGERS of the country. Being in the same interest, consolidation must follow, and thus form a strong combination of railway. Directness of route is greatly in its favor, as it saves 147 miles in distance between New-York and San Francisco over any existing line. The MIDLAND PACIFIC, with the broad area of fertile and most productive land tributary to it, with its close alliance with the Missouri, Iowa and Nebraska Railroad and the Indianapolis, Bloomington and WESTERN EXTENSION, must soon be taxed to its fullest limit to accommodate local and through business. Shipments of products by this road will lead to the WEST as well as to the EAST. We recommend these Bonds, which are a FIRST LIEN on COMPLETED road, as a prime security, PERFECTLY SAFE, and IN RETURNS much more desirable for investors than Government Bonds.

Present price, 90 and accrued interest, in currency.

Coupons payable Feb. 1 and Aug. 1, in Gold, free of tax, in the City of New-York. All marketable securities received in exchange at full rates. Bonds may be registered without charge. 90 and ACCRUED INTEREST.

The Road runs from Buffalo to the Detroit River, and is the Eastern link in the new AIR LINE FROM BUFFALO TO CHICAGO, and has been under construction for about two years past by railroad men who have seen the necessity for a STEEL RAIL, LOW GRADE SHORT ROUTE between the great railroad systems which diverge from Chicago, Toledo and Buffalo.

Among the builders of the road, by whose cash subscriptions 220 miles (out of 290) have already been graded, bridged and made ready for the superstructure, a large part of the steel rails bought, all of the materials for the stations, and a part of the equipment purchased, are:

MILTON COURTRIGHT, JOHN F. TRACY, DAVID DOWS, WM. L. SCOTT, HENRY FARNHAM, R. A. FORSYTH, HENRY H. PORTER, JOHN M. BURKE, M. L. SYKES, JR., B. F. ALLEN, all directors, either in the Chicago and North-west, or the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific; GEO. OPDYKE, of the Midland Road; JOHN B. ALLEN, SIDNEY DILLON, DANIEL DREW, J. S. CASEMENT, J. & J. CASEY, O. S. CHAPMAN, JOHN ROSS, DAVID STEWART, and F. H. WINSTON.

THE ROAD will be

either BUILT or in contemplation between Buffalo and Chicago, and will also shorten the distance between Toledo and Buffalo twenty-three miles.

THE MAXIMUM GRADE on the entire line does not exceed FIFTEEN FEET to the mile—and Ninety-six per cent. of the road IS STRAIGHT.

THE ROAD WILL BE COMPLETED and in running order on or before Dec. 31 of this year.

The principal and interest of the bonds are payable either in New-York, London or Frankfort.

We confidently recommend the bonds to all classes of investors.

THE LABOR QUESTION.

Continuance of the Eight-Hour Difficulty.

Meetings of the Different Trades Last Night—The Piano-Makers—New Features of the Strike—Action of Manufacturers.

The features of the great strike among the working men of New-York have not materially altered. The coach-painters held a meeting yesterday morning at the Military Hall, in the Bowery, and continued it during the day. A report was received from Mr. CORBITT, of Twenty-fifth-street, which stated that he would give his men the benefit of the eight-hour system. It was subsequently ascertained, however, that he would do so only until he could finish piece-work then on hand. The men who had gone to work for him upon his offer were forthwith caused to leave by a committee from the organization. One of the employers was admitted, although several of the members strenuously objected.

The iron and metal workers held a grand mass-meeting in the Germania Assembly Rooms, No. 233 Third-avenue, last evening. Delegates were received from SINGER'S workmen. It was resolved by the metal-workers to strike on next Thursday, unless employers accede to their demands for the eight-hour system with no reduction of wages, before that time.

The Gas-men's Protective Association and others in the employ of the gas companies held meetings yesterday afternoon and evening at the New-York Assembly Rooms, First-avenue and Twenty-second street, to consider whether to join in the eight-hour movement. The night-workers met in the afternoon and the day-workers in the evening. It was resolved to strike to-day at 12 o'clock, unless the employers accede to their demands. Should the gas companies hold out, the City will be enveloped in more than an Egyptian darkness. There are about 2,000 men employed about the different gas-works of the City, half working at night and the remainder during the day. A tax was levied upon each member of the Union of fifty cents, to defray any expenses which may accrue during the strike. Should the strikers succeed, the employment of an extra gang of men will be necessitated, as the day will then be divided into parts of eight hours each.

The car-drivers of the Fourth-avenue road obtained increased pay yesterday, and the car-drivers of the Eighth and Sixth avenues and Belt lines also contemplated a demand for higher wages, which will probably be made to-day.

Messrs. BREWSTER & Co., carriage manufacturers, issued an address to their workmen in which they deplored the fact that the pleasant relations heretofore existing between them had been broken off by the interference of persons whose interests, as they state, lie in the encouragement of discord. The men were asked to look backward and see if there had been any violation of agreement upon the part of the firm and to consider whether they did not act unwisely in delivering over to irresponsible persons the right to determine their relations with their employers. The address closed with the hope that, whatever may be the result of the strike, the workmen will do nothing that shall prevent the restoration of kindly relations between themselves and the firm.

The carriage blacksmiths held a meeting last evening at No. 200 Third-avenue, and resolved to adopt the eight-hour system, and go on strike next Monday if the demand is not acceded to.

The marble-cutters met at No. 307 Third-avenue, and reported that the strike would end to-night, as the bosses had all agreed to the demand. A code of by-laws was adopted.

The tin and slate roofers held a meeting at No. 807 Third-avenue, and reported that all the shops had agreed to the eight-hour movement. The organization is 1,400 strong, and intends forming a secret league.

The varnishers and polishers met yesterday and enrolled more members.

The furriers, the wood-turners, the case-makers, the hat and cap-makers, the cigar-makers and others will meet to strike.

The German wood-carvers, cabinet-makers and upholsterers held their usual meetings at the Teutonia Assembly Rooms yesterday.

The delegates from the various trade organizations met last evening in Teutonia Hall, representing about 19,000 working men, all engaged in support of the eight-hour movement. Preparations were made for a demonstration, to be held on Monday next, in support of the movement.

The route for the grand procession of the working men on Monday, was approved yesterday by the Board of Police, and an escort authorized.

The Committee on Ways and Means of the Eight-hour League distributed the pensions yesterday to the strikers. There were $5,000 to be divided, for which 10,000 men came in for shares.

The clothing cutters of Newark, N. J., have held a meeting in relation to the eight-hour movement, and have appointed a committee, to endeavor to make some amicable arrangement with employers for reduction of the hours of labor.

What Some Masters Say—The Cabinet- and Piano-Makers — Facts About Singer's and Brewster's Factories.

In consequence of certain information which the TIMES received, a reporter was yesterday sent round to the piano-makers to ascertain the accuracy of facts which have been paraded by the working-men. He first visited the ware-rooms of Mr. ALBERT WEBER, on Fifth-avenue, and questioned him as to his intentions with regard to the eight-hour demand. That gentleman said that the report was utterly untrue, and that it was impossible for any one even to give it as a probability, because no workman had approached him on the subject. They knew too well his sentiments. He had told them that it was one of those things which would not be done, for the simple reason that it could not. The position of the New-York makers rendered it impossible to increase the price of a piano a single dollar, and therefore if the workmen were resolute they would look about for some other means of investing their capital. Mr. WEBER told the reporter that he believed the strike would be over in one week from the big meeting on Monday, and that the men would be glad to come back again for the ten hours and the old rates of piece-work. From Mr. WEBER the reporter visited Mr. HAINES, who acceded to the demand. He informed him that he had yielded to it for one week only, as a trial, and that the men would have to resume at the old style on Monday or quit his employ. He said that the men could not do the same amount of work in eight hours as they had done in ten, with the exception of the varnishers, and that he should endeavor to pay them by the piece in future. The next place visited was Steinway Hall, where the reporter saw Mr. WM. STEINWAY. He stated that on last Tuesday his men, by three-fourths majority, agreed to take the ten per cent. advance and work the ten hours. On Wednesday morning when they came to work there was a crowd of 2,000 men at the gates, yelling, hooping and hissing like so many madmen. The employes were panic-struck by this demonstration, and all save about 100 went back. These are still working, guarded by 200 Police. He had no doubt whatever of the final result, but pitied his workmen, who, by the action of their comrades, were not only kept from working, but would lose the ten per cent. which he offered. "The fact is," said Mr. STEINWAY, "the piano men have struck in the commencement of the dull season, and, like the cabinet-makers, have outwitted themselves. Business will not be brisk for three months, and the manufactures would only have been making stock to keep their hands going, so that this strike is a god-send to most of us. It is the same with the cabinet-makers, who can make holiday, if they desire it, for three months, for their bosses do not want them. But the question ought to be settled now, so that there shall be no strike when business becomes brisk again. I have sent round to all my agents, and they all agree that only a very slight increase is possible. The end of it will be that the piano manufacturers of New-York will have to emigrate. Even now some dealers have gone to Boston to see what they can do, and the makers there are turning out pianos as fast as they can. Our men have been deluded into the idea that there would be an eight-hour strike in Boston, Baltimore and Philadelphia among the piano-makers, but they are greatly deceived. The country workmen are too glad of a good spell of brisk trade, being accustomed to dull times and half days."

The reporter next called upon Mr. MACKENZIE, the gentleman in charge of the Singer factory in Mott-street. The huge pile of building was closed, and a written notice was posted on one of the iron shutters informing all men in the employ of the Singer factory that the place was closed, and that they would be paid off on June the 10th. The central door was half open, and several policemen appeared in the background. Being ushered into the presence of Mr. MACKENZIE, that gentleman shook his head when the strike was mentioned. "Ah," said he, "I don't mind men striking, but I cannot understand how they can tell such lies and show such ingratitude to the firm. There was started some years ago in these works a benevolent society. Every man subscribed weekly ten cents. In eighteen months the concern was bankrupt. We organized it again under our management, starting it with $200, and making the payment of ten cents a week compulsory on every one. Of the boys and apprentices who earned but little, we paid the fees ourselves. Up to the present date that society has distributed between $4,000 and $5,000, and has now in the Treasury $1,300. And one of their orators gets up and says that we are using this money to fight the eight-hour movement. It is such a senseless cruel lie; I cannot think men who respected themselves would allow such a statement to pass uncontradicted, but they cheered the liar. Struck—yes, Sir; the men have struck; and they can stop out as long as they please; for this is the dull season, and we were only making stock. Ever since we established our factory in Glasgow for the European trade we have not been so pressed, for it makes 1,400 a week, and that covers most of our export business. But we intend to put ourselves out of the power of these men. We are going to establish our factory in Elizabethport, N. J., where we have 1,000 feet of water-front, and are in direct communication with the railway. The first to strike were the molders. We paid them in this way: So many pieces counted a day of ten hours. Now, they only worked eight hours a day, and in the six days they turned out pieces enough for nine days of ten hours, and were paid accordingly. Some of them made $29 and $30 a week, and the average of all was over $25; and they struck for the twenty per cent piece-work, which would have given some of them $36 and $38 a week. Well, next year we shall be in Elizabethport."

From SINGER'S to BREWSTER'S carriage works on Broome-street was but a step. Mr. LAWRENCE said that all but a few hands were on strike, though on Monday they signed a contract that they would remain at the old terms. It must be remembered that this firm set the example of co-operation by voluntarily giving to their workmen a tenth of the profits. Mr. LAWRENCE said it was not quite dull times yet, for it was just the fag end of the season, but in a week or so there would be complete stagnation. The men were to receive their percentage on the 1st of July, but since they abandoned the firm in whose profits they had been given an interest, of course they would lose all advantages which would have accrued to them.

The Philadelphia Gas-Makers' Strike.

PHILADELPHIA, June 7.—Owing to the strike of the men employed at the various gas-works, the city to-night is furnished with a very meagre supply of gas. But few of the street-lamps are lighted, and the city is shrouded in almost total darkness. Other men are being rapidly engaged.

THE REFORMED CHURCH SYNOD.

Delegates Received from Other Denominations—Debate on the Adoption of the Report of the Committee on Hope College.

The General Synod of the Reformed Church in America met again yesterday morning in the Middle Reformed Church, Harrison-street, Brooklyn. Dr. ELMENDORF presided, and the attendance of delegates was larger than on the preceding day. After the religious exercises, Dr. DEAL, delegate from the Lutheran Church of the United States, delivered an address, in which he said he looked forward with pleasure to the time when both churches shall unite, knowing that the pleasantest relations have always existed between them. According to the latest statistics there are fifty-four Lutheran Synods in this country, 383 congregations and 450,000 communicants. The emigration of Lutherans to the United States has of late been very heavy, and the speaker thought that before another year his church would number 500,000 members.

Dr. ELMENDORF welcomed the delegate cordially as from the Church founded by the great Reformer. The tendency of all Christian Churches in this country at this time, he thought, was toward a higher spiritual unity, and he welcomed these fraternal visits as steps toward that end. To the Lutherans, in the name of the Reformers, he sent the warmest response to their kindly greeting.

Rev. Dr. WILSON, delegate from the Presbyterian Church, and Rev. Dr. DAVIS, from the Reformed Church, East, were also received and invited to participate in the proceedings.

The Chair announced the following as the Committee to report upon the proposition to consolidate the various Boards of the Church, as called for by resolution: Revs. H. D. Ganse, E. T. Corwin, William R. Duryea, John H. Duryea, Philip Phillips, Jr., James Anderson and J. N. Brinkerhoff.

A communication was read from Prof. CRISPELL, of Michigan, suggesting that the new chair to be established in Hope College be called "the Huguenots Chair of Didactic and Polemic Theology," which was referred to the Committee on the Professorate.

After some discussion, the question of the Professorate of Hope College was then taken up, on a motion to adopt the annual report of the Seminary. The report states that the chair of didactic and polemic Theology in the seminary at New-Brunswick is now vacant, as it has been for the past eighteen months. During the past year Dr. WOODBRIDGE has acted acceptably as Professor pro tem. The Seminary is considered unsatisfactory in some respects. While the congregation has 467 churches, there have been but thirty young men in the theological schools during the past year. It is recommended that a fifth professorship be established on Christian apologetics.

Dr. VERMILYE moved to adopt the report, but was struck with its vagueness and wanted Dr. ANDERSON to tell him whether the Committee authorized their Chairman to announce to the Seminary Professors that they were in disfavor with the Church? If they did so, why was it not stated in the report?

After some debate the Chair ruled the question out of order, but Dr. ANDERSON subsequently stated that the Chairman of the Committee had been given no such authority.

Dr. VERMILYE replied that he knew there was no official permission given; but, he added, every person knows that a small committee may act in quite as effective a manner unofficially as they can officially. He knew, too, that there were certain important papers read before that committee concerning which no report was made. In short, he declared himself prepared to substantiate the statement that the Chairman of that committee did receive authority to inform these professors that their resignations would be acceptable, and because nothing was said of this he held the report to be imperfect.

A spirited debate ensued, and Gen. PRUYN, one of the Committee, moved to have the report divided, and the part relating to the seminary first considered. No vote on this was reached before 12½, the hour for adjournment.

At the afternoon session, the consideration of the report was resumed, and the debate continued until a second adjournment was had. The question will come up again this morning.

The evening session was merely for religious exercises and informal discussion. No business was transacted, and on account of the rain the attendance was small.

The City Contracts—How they were Awarded—Mayor Hall Privately Instructs the Contractors.

Commissioners SUTHERLAND, VAN VORST and JAQUES resumed their investigation last evening at the Sixth District Court rooms into the facts and circumstances relating to the city contracts. The case of T. & J. D. CUMMINS, for regulating, &c., Madison-avenue from One-hundred-and-fifth-street to One-hundred-and-twentieth-street was first called. This case was adjourned from Tuesday evening, when some damaging evidence was produced relative to the proceedings when the bids were opened by the Commissioner of Public Works. Last evening both CUMMINS and Mr. STRAHAN (counsel for the Controller) stated that the evidence previously produced could not be substantiated. The Commission, however, reserve its decision.

The next case called up was that of JNO. BRYAN, President of the Stowe Foundation Company, in the matter of several awards, but more particularly as to the awarding of a contract for paving Fifteenth-street, from Fourth-avenue to the East River. Counsel for the contractors produced witnesses, who testified that the several contracts were opened in the office of the Commissioner of Public Works, in the presence of WILLIAM M. TWEED, Sr., Controller CONNOLLY, Mr. STORRS, and the usual clerk, but counsel for complainant elicited from the witnesses that the contracts were not sent to the Controller as is usual, or advertised in the daily Press as required by law. The reason why they were not sent to the Controller was because Mayor HALL had privately given instructions that no more contracts were to be given for a time, as the City was already heavily assessed.

Mr. DEVLIN, the Chairman of a committee of property-owners on the line of the contract above alluded to, gave an account of how the Board of Aldermen received $200,000 to pass the contracts of the aforesaid Company, covering in all about twenty miles of ground, including the contract previously specified. Counsel objected to parts of the evidence, and the case was adjourned to future hearing.

From the Troy Times, June 5.

ALICE SNYDER, a little girl of ten years of age, died in Saratoga on Monday afternoon, from the effects of an injury received at the hands of WILLIE VAN WAGONER, a boy of eight, about six weeks since. ALICE was carrying a baby along the sidewalk, and passed WILLIE, who was playing marbles alone. She remarked that the marbles looked like hers, and picked one up. The boy became enraged, ran into the yard and procured a stick over four feet in length, knotty, and which had been used for beating carpets. Returning, he struck ALICE so severely on the left temple that she dropped the infant from her arms. She suffered severely that day and night, but on the next day (Sunday) attended Sabbath-school. On Monday following she was taken down, and with two or three exceptions has been prostrated since.

GERMAN AMERICANS.

Resolutions Adopted by the German Reform Organization.

The General Committee of German Reform Organizations held a meeting at the Beethoven Club-house, in Fifth-street, last evening, when, in the absence of Mr. OTTENDORFER, the President, Mr. KOEHLER presided. Resolutions submitted by the Executive Committee were passed by an unanimous vote. They are as follows:

The insignificant results of the endeavor to reach a thorough Reform of our City Government could not but create deep-seated dissatisfaction among those of our citizens who sincerely hoped for the success of the Reform movement. Most of the attempts have proven abortive to secure from our State Legislature laws that would remove all bad influences, and would have created an opportunity for a cure of our rotten Municipal affairs.

The experience of the last four months, however, has proved again that party politics is the bitterest foe the Reform movement has to encounter. We may fairly ascribe to this cause the coolness with which all measures proposed by the citizens of New-York were met by the Legislature in Albany. It is to be feared that this evil influence will be growing in the course of this year, as the excitement of the impending State and national election will draw party lines all the closer. The selection of candidates for City offices will probably be made more in consideration of the strength they may add to either State or national ticket, than in regard to their ability and character. The passion and excitement of a Presidential election lessen the interest citizens take in the government of their home affairs, and men may be elected to rule our City who will give occasion to our citizens to repent their want of foresight in selecting them.

Under such circumstances well-meaning and patriotic men, men who feel the necessity of freeing our City from vice and corruption, must stand unfalteringly by their resolve, and not be led astray by considerations of another nature. Be it therefore

Resolved, That we shall continue, independently and unbiased by our views and sides in State and national politics, to use all our efforts and strength to secure to our City an honest, economical and able administration.

Resolved, That we shall follow closely and with a watchful eye the acts of our present City officers; that we shall protest against all unfair or dishonest measures contemplated or executed by such officials, but give our strongest and most energetic support to the honest and capable men with whose administration the citizens may well be satisfied.

Resolved, That we shall insist on an energetic prosecution of the trials pending before the Senate and Courts on account of corruption and malfeasance in office.

Resolved, That we shall take steps to secure the co-operation of all organizations having the same end in view, namely, to recommend to the citizens for their suffrages candidates for the City and legislative offices whose standing and abilities are a pledge that when elected they will act in the spirit of true Reform. For this purpose we shall scrutinize the votes of the members of the late Legislature on all measures relating to our City affairs.

Resolved, That the various Reform organizations ought to cause practical and experienced men to draft and prepare bills and measures for the reformation of our Municipal Government and for the reformation of our civil, Police and criminal Courts, and to recommend, after a careful and thorough examination, such measures to the next Legislature and urge their adoption.

The Executive Committee was directed to take action to carry into effect the measures suggested in these resolutions.

The American Jockey Club Pools—The Third Day's Races.

If the sun shines this afternoon the third day's racing of the American Jockey Club will take place at Jerome Park. The programme promises four races. The first a purse of $500 for three-year olds, entrance money to second horse; winners of $500 to carry three pounds; of $1,000, five pounds: of the Ladies' Stakes, seven pounds; of the Belmont Stakes, ten pounds extra; one mile and a quarter. This has four entries, viz.: Hubbard, Elsie, an Australian colt and Margin. The second will be a dash of a mile and three-quarters for all ages, to carry 100 pounds, in which the following five are entered, viz: Ortolan, Frank Hampton, Tubman Frogtown and Tom Boston. This race monopolized the attention of the betting men last night, and puzzled them considerably to pick the winner. The third race will be for the Westchester Cup, and the famous Harry Bassett will have two stout competitors in Lyttleton and Alroy. Of course there is no betting on the result, as it is considered a dead sure thing for Bassett to win. Two or three pools were sold for second place between Lyttleton and Alroy, the former bringing $50 and the latter $40. A hurdle race of a mile and three-quarters, over seven hurdles, will bring the day's sport to a close. There are seven entries, and a brilliant contest is anticipated. The following were the rates at which the pools sold on the several races at the subscription-room last night:

The Jersey City Official Malfeasance Cases—The Prisoners to be Sentenced Today.

In the Hudson County Courts, today, Mr. WM. H. BUMSTED, the convicted Commissioner of Public Works, and Mr. GARRETT VREELAND, one of the oldest and wealthiest residents of Hudson County, will receive their sentences, and the most intense interest in the matter is manifested throughout the county. Judge BEDLE will call the prisoners up for sentence at 10 o'clock, and the impression is general that they will get the full penalty the law allows. Mr. VREELAND has been on a sick bed during the past week, and it is rumored that his disgrace has almost overturned his intellect. Mr. BUMSTED has given in his resignation as Commissioner, which office he is disqualified from ever holding again. It is reported that he has made arrangements for disposing of his property, which is said to be worth $400,000 or $500,000. The sentence of the Court, whatever it may be, will doubtless be subjected to the review of the Court of Errors and Appeals.

THE ICE KING REFRIGERATOR,
Patented Feb. 15, 1870. H. M. Diggins, Patentee. First-class premiums awarded for the Ice King at all the industrial exhibitions held throughout the West, South and South-west. Its advantages over others are numerous. It is a preserver, not a consumer, like others bearing the name of Refrigerator. 1st. With the Ice King I can freeze a pan of water into solid ice in a few hours. 2d. I can produce a temperature of fifteen degrees in Midsummer. 3d. It will preserve its contents for any length of time. 4th. One article will not partake of the taste or smell of the other. 5th. The Refrigerator is divided into two separate and distinct compartments. 6th. Combines the best water-cooler in the world. 7th. It can be made into all sizes for family use, hotels, restaurants, butchers, fish and game dealers, steam-boats, or any other place where a Refrigerator is required. 8th. I challenge the world to produce its equal. The celebrated Ice King Refrigerator is now on exhibition and in actual operation and for sale at No. 1,184 BROADWAY, under the Sturtevant House. Call and see it.
